Hijacker slain boarding Denver jet to flee U.S.

DENVER (AP) — FBI agents shot and killed a gunman early today as he boarded an airline jet he thought was to fly him to Mexico, an FBI spokesman said. The gunman had held two hostages on a private plane for seven hours.

Before he left the first plane, the gunman had told authorities over the radio:

"I'll tell you what. I'm still gonna have this gun right up the back of his (the hostage) head, and it's gonna be cocked, and if anybody even budges me, it's gonna go off, you know that."

He also had ordered that the airline jet be positioned so that it would be in front of the smaller plane. "Just like in the old movies, you know. I don't think I trust you behind me."

Ted Rosack, chief of the Denver FBI office, said Roger Lyle Lentz, 31, was killed shortly after midnight, ending an episode that began in Grand Island, Neb., and included two separate flights over Colorado aboard the commandeered private plane.

Neither hostage — pilot Robert Blair and mechanic Harlan Hillers, both of Grand Island — was hurt during the seven hours they spent in the Piper Navaho with the gunman or in the gunfire aboard the commercial jet, Rosack said.

"The subject came up the ramp with his hostages, ducked into the galley, and when agents aboard the plane properly identified him, was shot," Rosack said. "One of the agents said he believed the subject fired one shot, but we're still investigating that."

The shooting occurred aboard a Convair 990, a four-engine jet owned by Ports of Call Travel Club, a local airline. It was the second jet prepared for Lentz, who earlier rejected a DC8 trainer owned by United Airlines for the flight he demanded to Mexico.

Authorites said Lentz faced sentencing on a drunk driving charge and had shot at his wife earlier Sunday.

He then went to the Grand Island airport, carried a .22-caliber revolver and a .410 shotgun aboard the Navaho and ordered Blair to take off, Rosack said.

He said Hillers was in the airplane because he had just finished servicing it for flight.

After arriving at Denver's Stapleton International Airport, the plane sat on a runway while FBI agents tried to talk Lentz into surrendering, Rosack said. He demanded a Boeing 747, then a Boeing 737, then any type of commercial aircraft to fly him to Mexico, Rosack said.

The FBI agent said the plane took on fuel after 3½ hours on the ground, then inexplicably took off, circled the airport for about a half-hour and landed. It was refueled and took off again.

During the second flight, Blair got clearance to land at Casper, Wyo., about 250 miles north of Denver, but just north of Greeley, Colo., 50 miles north of Denver, the plane turned back and returned to Stapleton.

Rosack said it was uncertain why Lentz took over the plane in Nebraska, but the FBI agent said he assumed the gunman wanted to leave the country to escape prosecution on Nebraska charges.

In Grand Island, Hall County Sheriff C.F. Headley said Monday that Lentz was convicted of drunk driving a week ago and fired from his job Friday. The sheriff said Lentz had been drinking heavily since then and shot at his wife Sunday afternoon at their home in Marquette, Neb.

GNP spurts 7.5%, signaling economy firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The volume of the nation's total economic output jumped at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent during the three months ending in March and moved to within a whisker of its prerecession peak, the government said today.

The increase in the volume of the nation's Gross National Product, reported by the Commerce Department, compared to a 5 per cent annual growth rate during the previous quarter.

The Commerce Department said the volume of the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) climbed at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent for the quarter, compared to a 5 per cent growth rate during the previous quarter.

The jump pushed the dollar value of the GNP to an annual rate of $1.616 trillion — 19.4 per cent ahead of peak output during the final quarter of 1973. But inflation cut the quarter's volume of goods and services to two-tenths of a per cent below the 1973 peak.

The Gross National Product represents the total output of goods and services in the nation's economy and is the broadest gauge of the nation's economic performance.

The quarter's increase is within the range expected by Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and others, but at the high end of the range. The figures for the quarter are preliminary and subject to revision.

The quarter's increase virtually assured that the nation's economy will surpass its pre-recesson peak sometime in the next three months.

Although output will be higher than earlier peaks, this gain is taking place in a different environment than the one in late 1973.

For one thing, the nation's population and the size of its work force are larger by 3.8 million. For another, unemployment was at 4.8 per cent in November of 1973, at the onset of the recession, and is now at 7.5 per cent.

However, the first quarter progress indicates that original administration estimates of economic performance for all of 1976 might have been too pessimistic and now are likely to be revised.

The latest increase in the Gross National Product is the fourth consecutive quarterly rise, leaving the indicator 6.9 per cent above the recession's trough in the first quarter of 1975. It is the strongest gain since the increase at a 12 per cent annual rate in the third quarter of 1975.

The GNP also showed a sharp improvement in the inflation rate as measured in Gross National Product accounts. Prices show an increase of 3.7 per cent at an annual rate during the quarter ending in March, compared to a 6.8 per cent increase at an annual rate during the previous quarter.

This marked the second straight quarter of improvement in inflation and the lowest rate since 3.4 per cent in the third quarter of 1972. The GNP inflation measure includes a broader selection of goods and services than that used in the more familiar Consumer Price Index.

A key factor in the latest increase in economic output was the start of a replenishment of the inventories of goods kept in reserve by business. Total business inventories climbed at an annual rate of $9.5 billion after adjustment for inflation.

This was the first quarterly increase in inventories in six quarters. The drop in demand during the recession had prompted businesses to cut back their inventories. And that, in turn, forced cutbacks in employment.

The start of inventory rebuilding signals further gains for employment in the months ahead.

High court to hear California appeal on packaging dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to hear an appeal, supported by 36 states, from a decision striking down California's "truth in packaging" law.

The justices will hear arguments on a ruling of the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco that the California law must give way before federal laws governing accurate weight in food packages.

The ruling stemmed from a suit by General Mills, the Pillsbury Co. and Seaboard Allied Milling Corp. challenging the California law.

California officials argued that the state law, which uses sampling methods to police against short weight, is needed to protect the consumer.

They maintained the federal regulation, which permits "reasonable variations" based on moisture loss and other considerations, was too vague to be enforceable.

But the justices denied a request by state officials for an order permitting them to enforce the weights and measures law while the lower court decision is being appealed.

The court also asked Solicitor General Robert H. Bork to file a brief outlining the government's view on the case.

The suit came after California inspectors ordered packages of flour removed from store shelves because of short weight.

In other action, the court:

—Declined to rule by May 1 whether Rep. Morris K. Udall is entitled to have his name placed on the ballot in the May 4 Indiana presidential primary.

—Refused to review a judicial order prohibiting the showing of the film "Manson" in Northern Caifornia until a jury was selected to hear the trial of Lynette Fromme, a former Charles Manson cult follower who was convicted of attempting to assassinate President Ford.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that the states may not issue air pollution control plans imposing special restrictions during bad weather.

—Refused to decide whether government officials who act in "good faith" in authorizing illegal wiretaps must pay damages to wiretap targets.

—Refused to let Texas authorities prosecute a San Antonio theater owner for using a "criminal instrument" — his movie projector — after he was charged with showing an obscene movie.

Police phones jingle

What's up? it was meteorite over area

A meteorite that traced a fiery path over the valley Sunday night touched off numerous phone calls to local police agencies.

Residents calling Ontario police and the West End sheriff's station about 8:20 p.m. reported seeing a "large ball of fire." Deputies said many people at first thought it was a burning aircraft.

The meteor apparently could be seen for miles over most parts of the valley.

In Northern California, San Jose residents apparently saw the same meteorite and thought it had hurtled to the earth. The California Highway Patrol made a brief helicopter run but nothing was found.

A Pacific Southwest Airliner pilot reported seeing the glow from the meteorite which was so bright "it lit up the cockpit." The pilot thought it was a plane crashing, according to a Federal Aviation Administration official. Where the meteorite landed is unknown.

Doctors at 3 county hospitals call strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Interns and residents who staff the three main Los Angeles County hospitals announced today they will strike Wednesday, closing the facilities for all but emergency care.

The walkout will affect nearly 1,200 physicians at County-USC Medical Center, Harbor General Hospital and Martin Luther King Hospital, said Dr. Mark Chassin, a spokesman for the dissident staff doctors.

Chassin said negotiations over a new contract with the county had stalled. Issues leading to the strike decision, he said, fall in five areas:

—A patient care fund set up by staff doctors. Chassin said the doctors want to increase the fund while the county wants to cut it back.

—Patient care at the hospital. Chassin listed a lack of adequate nursing staff, life-support equipment and ancillary staff. He said county officials have ignored remedies proposed by the physicians.

—"Intolerably long hours," which he said the interns are forced to work.

—Salaries, which Chassin said amount to $2.30 an hour in some cases.

—Fringe benefits.

Promotion, pension changes suggested

Panel proposes $3-$4 billion cut in defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government commission says the United States could cut $3 billion to $4 billion annually from its defense budget by overhauling procedures for military pay, promotion, retirement and other personnel costs.

The Defense Manpower Commission proposed scrapping the current retirement system, which allows all members of the armed services to retire at half-pay after 20 years. It suggested a 30-year minimum, except for men serving in combat units, who would still be eligible to retire after 20 years.

The seven-member citizens' commission, which was appointed by Congress, spent two years and $2.4 million studying America's military manpower needs.

In a 518-page report issued Sunday, the panel also said the United States will have to keep its forces at the current level of 2.1 million regulars and 890,000 reservists for the next decade.

But the commission charged that the reserves and the National Guard are a weak link behind the nation's all-volunteer force. In case of war, many reservists and the Guard would be needed overseas in 60 to 90 days, but would not be ready for 120 to 160 days, the panel found.

The commission, headed by former Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr, recommended reviving a standby draft that would require all young men to register upon their 18th birthday. A standby system would allow the government to induct men within 30 days of a mobilization order, the panel said. Without a standby draft, it would take four months to induct men in an emergency, Tarr estimated.

The United States abolished the draft in 1973. It decided three months ago that 18-yearold men would no longer be required to register, and most of the Selective Service machinery has been dismantled and its 1,700 workers shifted.

The commission said the economic climate will determine whether the all-volunteer force draws sufficient recruits over the next 10 years.

If the economy booms, "the supply of recruits will probably not be large enough," the panel found. Pay raises, more enlistment bonuses and increased enrollment of women could be used to avert "a major recruiting shortfall," the commission said, adding that military pay and benefits must be kept competitive with civilian scales.

But to help curb salaries and other manpower costs — which account for more than $57 billion of the Pentagon's $100.1-billion spending power proposed in President Ford's fiscal 1977 budget — the commission also recommended ending the practice of forcing men and women out of the service unless they are promoted within a specified period.

Reforming the retirement system would help eliminate the "up or out" promotion system, the commission said, since the armed services would not be forced to choose careerists until they had served 10 years.

It proposed that no one be given vested pension rights until he or she had served 10 years. After 10 years an applicant would be accepted for a full career or weeded out.

As for pay, the commission said that items now comprising regular military compensation should be converted into a "fully taxable military salary." This would mean the present system of a taxable pay and nontaxable benefits such as housing allowances would be eliminated, and the entire package would be considered a serviceman's compensation subject to income taxes.

At the same time, the commission stressed it believes that such institutional benefits as medical care, commissary and post exchange privileges are essential and should be maintained by the government.

Farm labor board backers give up?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Backers of California's bankrupt farm labor board say they've just about given up on getting the legislature to revive the board. The question is, are they bluffing?

That question may be answered this week as the lawmakers return from their one-week Easter vacation with the farm labor issue still unresolved.

The Agricultural Labor Relations Board, which conducted California's first 400 union elections for farm workers, hasn't held an election since Feb. 6. A legislative deadlock has cut off its funding.

The United Farm Workers of America, winners of a majority of the union elections, and Senate Democratic leader David Roberti, sponsor of an ALRB appropriation bill, say they've despaired of getting the money past grower interests in the Senate.

Both say they're staking their hopes on an initiative the UFW is circulating for the November state ballot. It would re-enact the farm labor law, make some changes the UFW wants, and ban further amendments without another public vote.

Roberti, D-Los Angeles, said last week that the Senate deadlock means "the only alternative is an initiative which will insulate the board from this kind of political warfare."

The statement could be interpreted two ways: Roberti still hasn't got the two-thirds Senate majority he needs for the appropriation, and growers might be well advised to rethink their opposition to the bill and ward off the tougher initiative.

Growers contend the ALRB is biased in favor of Cesar Chavez' UFW. Republicans and rural Democrats in the Senate have blocked a $2.5 million bill to revive the ALRB, and vow to fight the board's appropriation in the state budget this June.

But if the initiative reaches the ballot and passes — both confidently predicted by the UFW — the legislature will be required to give the UFW the money it needs each year.

The initiative also would enact into law the ALRB's controversial rule letting union organizers recruit workers in the fields for three hours a day. The rule is a focal point of grower protests.

Meanwhile, ALRB members Joe Ortega and Leroy Chatfield and the board's general counsel, Walter Kintz, have resigned. A Los Angeles newspaper says a third member of the five-man board, Joseph Grodin, is also quitting.

Besides a possible farm labor vote, legislators face some other potentially explosive issues this week, including two proposals by foes of gun control.

The constitutional amendments by Assemblyman John Briggs, R Fullerton, and Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, would ask voters to put a guarantee of the right to bear arms into the state constitution.

If the legislature and voters approved either of the measures, it would take another public vote to pass a gun control law.

Backers of gun control, whose bill to ban most private ownership of handguns was defeated in the legislature this year, are circulating an initiative of their own for the state ballot.

Briggs' measure is in the liberal Assembly Criminal Justice Committee on Tuesday. Richardson's goes before the more conservative Senate Judiciary Committee the next day.

Predict decline in elementary, high school enrollment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enrollment in public elementary and high schools will continue to decline over the next six years, but the government foresees no drop in the number of classroom teachers.

The National Center for Health Statistics also projected recently that college enrollments, which doubled in the past decade, will keep rising, but at a slower rate.

Elementary-secondary enrollment, which has fallen since a 1970-71 peak of 51.3 million pupils, should level off around 44.5 million in the fall of 1982, the center said in a report prepared for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The number of teachers in these schools is expected to hold steady at the current level of nearly 2.4 million through 1984, compared with 1.8 million in 1964, statisticians said.

College enrollments soared from 5.3 million in 1964 to 10.2 million in 1974, the report said. In the next eight years, the number of higher education instructors is likely to increase from 633,000 to 695,000.

And the costs of attending college will rise at least through 1984, the center predicted.

By the fall of 1984 costs for tuition, fees, room and board will average $1,922 in public institutions and $4,248 in private colleges. Public colleges charged $1,708 and private colleges $3,592 in 1974-75.

By comparison, they charged $1,575 and $3,161 in 1964-65.

The report said the nation's total education bill, which stood at $108.4 billion in 1974-75, will grow to $122.3 billion in 1984.

Between 1975 and 1985, the number of college graduates is expected to increase from 944,000 to 1,076,000 for bachelor's degrees, from 291,700 to 339,800 for master's degrees and from 36,100 to 42,900 for doctoral degrees. The number of professional degrees in law, medicine and theology will rise from 54,700 in 1974-75 to 66,900 in 198485, the report said.

Five tax experts give him five sets of different figures

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A newspaper reporter hired five different experts to prepare his income tax returns this year and got five sets of figures on who owed what to whom.

Not only that, he got some contradictory answers to the same questions posed to Internal Revenue Service offices in Sacramento, San Francisco, San Diego and Portland.

"I think I should be audited," Ted Thomas wrote Sunday in The Sacramento Union.

He said the five experts gave him these answers:

—Pay the federal government $78 and receive $361 from the state.

—Pay the federal government $15 and receive $313 from the state.

—Pay the federal government $266 and receive $326 from the state.

—Pay the federal government $97 and receive $359 from the state.

—Pay the federal government $375 and receive $306.95 from the state.

Thomas admitted that while he was dealing with the consultants, he inadvertently gave some slightly different figures on rent and other items. "The differences, however, were not as significant as apparent outright errors made by some consultants," he said.

He didn't say which figures he actually sent in.

Thomas said the first two estimates were made by two different offices of the same firm located a few blocks from each other.

In addition, one consultant listed his wife as an employe of the firm for which she is a freelance writer, although the tax form from the firm said she wasn't a regular employe, he said.

The same accountant put down a $259 interest item as being paid by a bank instead of the other way around, although he had the bank form in his hand, and neglected to calculate a self-employment tax for his wife.

Another consultant gave Thomas and his wife a $104 deduction for a church with which neither was familiar.

Thomas said a major difference between tax advisers "seems to be in how many questions they ask their clients. Some didn't ask about expenses I thought would reduce my tax bill, but another jolted me into remembering a contribution of clothing to Goodwill."

Strike leaders want to avoid general strike

S.F. supervisors turn down mediator

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco supervisors say they intend to "weather" the walkout of city crafts workers and don't want a federal mediator's help at this point in the 20-day strike.

Supervisors' President Quentin Kopp Sunday night all but told federal mediator Gene Barry to take a walk, saying "as far as we're concerned there's no further reason for the Federal Mediation Service to be involved."

Last Friday Kopp said the city would agree to federal mediation if the striking unions would allow even partial public transportation service to be restored by today, and Barry was brought in to negotiate the deal. When the unions failed to go along, he said, "our willingness to mediate was withdrawn."

Before that development, strike leaders said they were "trying to get to the negotiating table" to end their walkout instead of seeking a general strike demanded by transit workers.

"We did not discuss a general strike," said John Crowley, secretary of the San Francisco Labor Council, after meeting Sunday with union leaders. "We're were just trying to get to the negotiating table."

Federal mediator Gene Barry met with striking labor leaders Sunday, but apparently was unable to get the stalemated negotiations going.

Meanwhile, a city-imposed deadline for at least partial resumption of public transit service, or withdrawal of its mediation offer, passed at 12:01 a.m. today without comment from either side.

More than 700 of the 2,000-member Transport Workers Union voted Saturday to continue supporting the strike by 1,750 crafts workers over the city's $5.7 million pay cutback.

But the drivers warned that they would reconsider that stand if a general strike were not implemented by Tuesday.

Redford, Morton effigies burned in Utah

KANAB, Utah (AP)—An effigy of movie star Robert Redford and three other effigies were hanged and set aflame Saturday night as 500 Kane County residents berated opponents of the now-defunct Kaiparowits power project.

Redford was represented by a blond-wigged dummy with a black hat and sign saying, "I'm a Big Star. I've Made My Money." Another effigy depicted former Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who had rejected the project when he was in office.

Southern Utah proponents of the $3.5 billion coal-fired plant, which was to be built on the Kaiparowits Plateau, said it would have given a needed economic boost to the region.

Utility companies backing the planned Kaiparowits plant shelved their plans last week, citing rising cost, environmental lawsuits and government delays.

The group also burned two unnamed dummies representing "bureaucrats, environmentalists and outsiders."

"This is the time and day that we, the people of Kane County, have chosen to put a torch to skunkman Redford, a self-proclaimed voice of the hypocritical obstructionists," announced John Nelson, the county engineer.

Redford's Sundance Ski Resort at his home in Provo, Utah, was also targeted by the Kane County residents, who said the movie actor "laid waste to a great swath of timberlands...for his own personal aggrandizement."

Coast Guard's cruiser hunt is suspended

LONG BEACH (AP) — The search for six persons lost aboard the cruiser Sure Bet has been suspended by the Coast Guard, but a catamaran believed lost has been found with the six persons aboard it all safe.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the active search for the Sure Bet was suspended after a crew in a helicopter searched for survivors of the wrecked 22-foot cruiser until dusk Sunday.

Earlier Sunday, Lt. Joel Belway said the search was being continued although little hope was held for the six people aboard. "Anything, especially around Easter time, is possible," he said. "But realistically the chance that anyone could have survived is pretty remote."

On Saturday, the Coast Guard had found the yacht wrecked and capsized about 20 miles offshore from Los Angeles Harbor with most of its life belts and flotation devices aboard. The boat was towed into port at Long Beach by a Coast Guard vessel, a spokesman said.

The ship was last heard from Thursday night when strong winds and heavy seas battered the boat. Turbulent seas hampered search efforts Friday and Saturday.

Skipper of the Sure Bet was Raymond L. Bunch, 51. The Coast Guard identified the passengers as Bunch's wife, Mary, 43; Frances Waddell, 49, and her son Lee, 26, all from Ojai; and Daniel Braeton, 27, and his wife, Debbie, 24, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

A Coast Guard spokeswoman said the 50-foot catamaran Shamrock, based in Ventura, was spotted eight miles off the coast of Santa Barbara Sunday afternoon by those on board a private vessel, the Josh Tide.

Sparse beach crowd surprises officials

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Area residents headed for church services or the beaches during a balmy Easter weekend, but officials expressed surprise at the sparse seashore turnout especially as Easter Sunday was the last day of the school spring break.

County lifeguards said there were fewer people than expected at the beaches, and only diehard surfers ventured into the 55-degree waters. There were no rescues reported.

Most churches, however, reported sunrise services were well-attended with more than 3,000 persons gathering at the Dolphin Arena at Marineland of the Pacific on the Palos Verdes Peninsula, where the service was conducted by the Rev. Thomas Cooper of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

"It was an outstanding, beautiful morning," said Craig Mitchell, a spokesman for Marineland. "The dolphins did not participate."

At Hollywood Bowl, Navy Chief of Chaplains Rear Adm. John J. O'Connor preached the sermon, while actress Rhonda Fleming read the traditional poem: "The Master Is Coming." The music was shared by the U.S. Naval Academy Glee Club, the Southern California Mormon Choir and the Easter Sunrise Youth Chorus.

About 100 persons walked out at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Cypress, complaining that the Rev. Phyllis Tyler Wayman, campus minister at California State University at Long Beach, delivered a "women's lib, political" sermon.

More than 3,500 persons turned out atop Mt. Rubidoux in Riverside where sunrise worship was staged against a backdrop of sunlit snow in the San Bernardino Mountains on the horizon.

Timothy Cardinal Manning celebrated Mass at the Los Angeles County Hall of Justice jail for some 275 prisoners who attended.

At the Holy Shepherd Lutheran Church in Chatsworth, members of the congregation released helium-filled balloons bearing such inscriptions as "Jesus Lives," "Hello, God, Remember Me?" and "Happy Easter."

The Union Rescue Mission in downtown Los Angeles reported serving full-course ham dinners Sunday to 1,250 indigent persons while 608 others were served corn and refried beans at the Los Angeles Mission.

Schabarum will quit RTD post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum says he's resigning as a rapid transit district official, chiefly because of what he says is the board's irresponsibility in putting a $5.8 billion transit plan on the June ballot.

The proposal to build the Sunset Coast Line was made by Baxter Ward, a frequent rival of Schabarum on the Board of Supervisors and the Southern California Rapid Transit District board. Both men, as supervisors, appointed themselves to the RTD.

Schabarum said during the weekend he will formally resign in about three weeks, as soon as he can find a replacement.

90-degree heat hurts Easter celebrations

By The Associated Press

Millions of Americans, dressed in their finest, attended Easter worship services Sunday as 90-degree temperatures along the East Coast cut down attendance in the traditional Easter parades.

Instead, many people throughout the Northeast swarmed to the beaches as the mercury hit 92 in Philadelphia, 93 in Boston and Richmond and 95 in New York. Rain in most of the Midwest extended as far south as Texas, snow and rain fell from the northern Rockies to the Washington coast, and generally sunny weather prevailed elsewhere.

Tens of thousands of New Yorkers, undaunted by the unseasonable heat, did stroll down Fifth Avenue in the annual Easter Parade as countless others jammed into nearby St. Patrick's Cathedral. But the parade turnout was small by New York standards.

Part of New York's Easter Pararde featured about 200 members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, who strolled along Fifth Avenue in Colonial-era clothes, urging other strollers to "Look for the union label."

In an Easter sermon, the Rt. Rev. Paul Moore Jr., Episcopal bishop of New York, denounced businesses which make the "immoral decision" to leave New York and take their jobs to other areas.

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Boston said at St. Paul's Church in Cambridge, "We celebrate life today ... in grateful joy we praise Him for the gift of life."

Sunrise services were held throughout the nation, observing the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Outdoor worships were held on the deck of the nearly 200-year-old USS Constitution in Boston Harbor, on the south rim of the Grand Canyon in Arizona, at the Meramec Caverns in Stanton, Mo., and on an ocean outcropping at Cape Elizabeth, Maine.

President and Mrs. Ford drove by motorcade 10 miles from his Camp David retreat to attend Easter service at the 150-year-old Episcopal Harriet Chapel in Catoctin Furnace, Md.

The pastor, the Rev. Charles Shaffer, said he prepared the service for his parishoners, "and anyone else who comes is welcome."

For the 12,000 residents of Minot, N.D., Easter Sunday was the day the Souris River stopped threatening their homes. Officials of that evacuated community reported the level of river was beginning to drop and that the dikes would prevent the fifth spring flood in seven years.

"Out of crisis comes the spirit again," preached the Rev. David Badgley, whose First Congregational Church of Minot held Easter service on the campus of a nearby college.

The Rev. Wade Davick, whose First Lutherin Church congregation held its Easter service in a movie theater, said, "One part is joyful on Easter. ... On the other side we are saddened and angered at the flood."

Minot still faces flood conditions

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — Flooding danger is far from over, city officials warned Minot residents today, even though the level of the Souris River has begun dropping slowly.

The 12,000 persons evacuated from their homes last week are being told it may be two weeks before they can return.

The river, which crested Sunday at seven feet above flood stage, is expected to continue with peak flows of 10,000 cubic feet per second for several days and to remain above normal until mid-May. The river was dropping at an average of .01 inches every two hours, the National Weather Service said.

The crest was one foot lower than had been feared. Emergency dikes as high as 25 feet were credited with helping prevent the fifth flood in seven years in low-lying sections of the city.

As workers continued to sandbag dikes to prevent erosion and seepage, officials expressed concern that residents would believe the danger was past and the supply of volunteer dikewatchers, sandbaggers and security patrols would dwindle.

"People get complacent," said city engineer Burt Peckham. "That's what bothers us.

"We're a long way from the end of the critical part of this. If we get a foot or two of drop, then we can breathe."

City Manager John Arnold said, "The prognosis is still danger for at least another week. The longer the water is high, the more likely we are to have street and yard boils."

The boils indicate dangerous levels of underground water pressure which could burst above ground level and flood portions of the city.

"The situation is still critical but we've survived the worst," Arnold said.

Mayor Chester Reiten made the first official announcement of the crest at 7 a.m., and officials immediately began getting telephone calls from evacuated residents asking when they could return to their homes.

"It will be a while yet," one official said. "I think 10 days to two weeks. But we really won't know until we see how the river drops."

The feeling in the community of 32,000 was one of relief when residents heard the crest had passed.

"I was so happy I cried a little when I heard about it," said one man who had been living with friends since Wednesday's evacuation deadline.

'A Chorus Line' and 'Travesties'

Tony Awards champions named

NEW YORK (AP) — The musical "A Chorus Line" and the farce-drama "Travesties" are Broadway's Tony Awards champion productions of the 1975-76 season.

Besides winning the silver medallion as the best songdance show, "A Chorus Line" scooped up eight of 11 other musical citations. Besides being named the best play, "Travesties" brought the male star acting trophy to John Wood.

The stage equivalents of Hollywood's Oscars were presented in 18 competitive categories Sunday night in a telecast over the ABC network that overran its scheduled two-hour time slot by 29 minutes. Production numbers and long thank-you speeches were the reason.

In addition to Wood, individual acting honors in the star class went to Irene Worth, for her portrayal of an aging performer in "Sweet Bird of Youth"; and in the musical divisions to Donna McKechnie, as a striving dancer in "A Chorus Line," and to George Rose, for a roistering gig as dustman Alfred P. Doolittle in the current revival of "My Fair Lady."

The four featured performer prizes went to: Edward Herrmann in Bernard Shaw's play "Mrs. Warren's Profession"; Shirley Knight in the drama "Kennedy's Children"; and in the musical categories, to Sammy Williams and Kelly Bishop, both of "A Chorus Line."

The other Tonys for "A Chorus Line" were for its story — about young performers trying to break into the big time — by James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante; the score, music by Marvin Hamlisch, lyrics, Edward Kleban; lighting design, Tharon Musser; director, Michael Bennett; and choreographer, Bennett and Bob Avian.

The other two musical awards went to "Pacific Overtures" for scenic design by Boris Aronson and costuming by Florenz Klotz.

Ellis Rabb took the Tony for director of a straight play with his work on "The Royal Family," a revival.

There were no real surprises in any of the voting by the 442 representatives of the theatrical profession who worked from four nominations in each category. Miss Musser had a double billing as lighting designer also of "Pacific Overtures."

Wood, Rose and Tom Stoppard, author of "Travesties," were the only Britons to win in competitive classes, a decline from the pattern of recent seasons. The Stoppard piece is a wild cerebral and linguistic romp about a hyothetical meeting in 1917 Zurich of Lenin, James Joyce and Tristan Tsara, founder of the Dada art movement.

A special new Actors Award was bestowed on a surprised Richard Burton for his return to Broadway in "Equus."

Burton was one of the program hosts, along with Eddie Albert, Jane Fonda, Diana Rigg, George C. Scott and the latter's wife, Trish Van Devere. A stellar galaxy of presenters opened the sealed envelopes containing winners' names.

George Abbott, 88-year-old veteran of 117 Broadway shows in which he has participated as an actor, author, director or producer, received the first annual Lawrence Langer prize for "distinguished lifetime achievement."

Special Tony trophies went to the Arena Stage, resident acting company in Washington; New York's Circle-in-the-Square troupe; and to two technicians, Mathilde Pincus, music copyist, and the late Thomas Fitzgerald, lighting expert.

The awards are named for Antoinette Perry, wartime chairman and secretary of the American Theater Wing, which began the annual ceremony 30 years ago. The awards are now supervised by the League of New York Theaters and Producers.

After the presentation program at the Shubert Theater — where "A Chorus Line" happens to be playing — ended, winners, losers and a thousand other ticket-holders trekked to the New York Hilton for a midnight supper-dance.

Lebanese fighting drops off sharply

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting dropped off sharply in the Lebanese civil war today as Syrian officers called in Lebanese leaders to try to arrange enforcement of another ceasefire.

"Let's hope for the best," said Premier Rashid Karami. "The security situation all over Lebanon is, relatively speaking, much, much better."

Police reported 18 persons killed and 41 wounded today in scattered shelling in Beirut, nearby mountain towns and Zagharta, President Suleiman Franjieh's hometown in northern Lebanon. More than 100 persons were reported killed Sunday.

Leaders of the warring leftist Moslems and right-wing Christians Saturday night accepted a Syrian proposal for mixed patrols of Palestinian guerrillas and militiamen to restore order under the supervision of a truce committee made up of representatives of the two Lebanese sides and of Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Sources in Damascus, the Syrian capital, said Syrian President Hafez Assad also plans to put Syrian soldiers on patrol with the Palestinians and Lebanese if necessary to enforce the truce. Assad has an estimated 6,000 Syrian troops in frontier areas in eastern and northern Lebanon, and he controls 7,000 men of the Saiqa Palestinian guerrilla organization.

Col. Aly Madani, head of the Syrian military police, and Col. Mohamed Khouly, the Syrian air force intelligence chief, came from Damascus and met with Karami, Palestinian security chief Abu Hassan and other Lebanese chieftains at Karami's home.

Former President Camille Chamoun, leader of the second-largest Christian militia, refused to attend, saying Karami's home was not a safe meeting place. But his son denied a report that Chamoun and his National Liberal party rejected the new Syrian peace plan. The son said Chamoun accepted the plan in general but objected to a provision rejecting any international (meaning American) or pan-Arab (meaning Egyptian) participation in the peacemaking.

Pomonan shot, robbed by unseen bandit

A Pomona man was shot and robbed by someone he did not see as he was washing his van late Saturday night, police reported.

The victim, Christopher Leist, 25, was shot in the lower right chest and was reported in serious condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

Leist was washing his van at the Auto Spa, a self-service business at 100 E. Freda St., shortly before midnight when he was shot. He told police later he heard a popping noise and was knocked to his knees. He lost consciousness, but revived and walked for help to the McDonald's Restaurant at 2200 N. Garey Ave.

The night manager there, Cathy Sullivan, 20, Ontario, said Leist staggered in, bleeding badly, and said, "I've been shot." he was taken to the hospital where a .38-caliber bullet was removed later from his chest.

Police said they found Leist's wallet lying near where he had been shot. Thirty-five dollars the wallet had contained was missing, they reported.

Loses status

A WEST END Jail prisoner quickly lost his trusty status Sunday when he was discovered in the jail kitchen area puffing on a marijuana cigarette.

The trusty, Michael Pet, told deputies later that he had found the marijuana in the bottom of the deputies' wall lockers while he was cleaning earlier. Deputies said deputies occasionally place confiscated marijuana in their lockers until someone with a key to the evidence room is available.

Pet was transferred back to the Central Jail in San Bernardino. Detectives said charges may be pending against Pet.

Purse snatching

Mrs. Lucille Bryant of 521 E. Flora St., ONTARIO, complained to police Sunday that three youths on bicycle rode by and grabbed her purse in the 400 block of W. F Street.

The woman said she was walking home when the three youths rode up behind her and quickly took her purse containing a small amount of cash, prescription glasses, and some change.

She described the first youth as being about 16, 5 feet 2, 110 pounds, with black hair. He was wearing tan pants and a blue jacket. The other two youths were described as being 10 and 12 years of age respectively.

$2,500 burglary

Burglars broke into an ONTARIO home at 227 E. Princeton St. and made off with numerous guns, tools, and jewelry valued at more than $2,500 Sunday, police reported.

Among the guns taken by the burglars was an antique 1847 Springfield army cap and ball rifle with a bayonet valued at $1,000, said homeowner Royce Hunt.

Also taken by the burglars was a Smith and Wesson .38 caliber revolver with a gold cylinder; a double barrelled Stephens 16 gauge shotgun; an 8 millimeter Mauser German rifle; an antique 8 millimeter Belgium military rifle; a .22 pump rifle; a ring with a diamond and five rubies. A radio and cassette recorder; drill bits, and a circular saw.

Royce said the total value of the stolen property was $2,547.

Van driver saves wounded officer

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I can't see nobody in that situation doing anything different," said Leroy Baldwin, who drove his van truck between a sniper and police to rescue a patrolman lying wounded in the crossfire.

Baldwin, 51, and his wife were en route to visit their daughter Friday night when they came upon the sniper perched in a third-floor window of a Lombard Street rowhouse and a line of police officers across the street.

Shortly before the Baldwins arrived at the bullet-sprayed intersection, the sniper began taking shots at passing cars and a police cruiser. The besieged officers radioed for help and the Baldwins were trapped by responding police units and the gunman.

The couple said that while huddled on the floor of the van they saw officer James A. Brennan wounded by three shots and his partner, officer James D. Halcomb, die after being hit in the neck with a single shot.

Police tried to reach the wounded officer but were driven off by the sniper's bullets.

Baldwin, who was told by police he didn't have to do it, drove his produce delivery van into the intersection while 200 policemen provided covering fire. Crouching under the steering wheel, he pulled the van alongside Brennan long enough to get him inside and then drove the wounded officer out of the range of fire.

The 51-minute gun battle with the sniper left four other policeman and a bystander wounded.

John E. Williams, 18, was charged with one count of murder and one count of assault in connection with the incident.

Baldwin said his rescue effort "was the first time anything like this ever happened to me, and I hope like hell it's the last."

Police said Baldwin probably will get a civilian commendation.

DST returns on April 25

WASHINGTON (AP) — The regular schedule for Daylight Saving Time will take effect again this year, with long days beginning a half-year run on April 25, when most Americans will turn the clock forward one hour.

Congress considered new legislation this year, but the efforts were blocked and the 1966 Uniform Time Act took effect again, providing for DST from the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in October.

Mother and daughter die in apartment fire

VAN NUYS (AP) — a 20-year-old woman and her 2-year-old daughter died in an Easter Day blaze, authorities report.

Officials said firemen quickly doused the flames on the second floor of a small apartment building Sunday, but in suffocating smoke they found the bodies of Tanya Ramirez, 20, and her daughter, Sonia, 2.

City Fire Department spokesman Bill Baird said the cause of the blaze had not been determined, but may have been caused by a cigarette or by a quilt falling on a heater.

Officers were told by the apartment manager that he heard a thump on the floor and a baby crying at about 3 a.m., but authorities were not alerted until 10:30 a.m. when a neighbor smelled smoke through the air conditioning.

In Los Angeles, another fire was reported in a 13-story apartment building in the Los Feliz Distict. There were no injuries in that fire, which was limited to a single apartment on the 11th floor. No immediate estimate of the damage was available, Baird said.

THE BRITISH ARE COMING — Shirley Ann Sheets of Denver climbs to the belfry of the Old North Church in Boston carrying two lanterns Sunday night in reenactment of the signaling one if by land, two if by sea, to Paul Revere and William Dawes, as to how the British were coming 201 years ago. Shirley is the great-great-great granddaughter of Robert Newman, sexton of the church at the time.

Pollster says Humphrey has nostalgia on his side

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has nostalgia on his side in his "noncandidacy" for the Democratic presidential nomination, pollster Louis Harris contends.

"There is a great kind of nostalgia about Hubert Humphrey. It is the best way you can explain his candidacy," Harris said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday.

"He has become kind of the elder statesman in the Democratic party," said Harris, who added that Humphrey's image fit "the New Deal pork chop, pork barrel approach to politics."

The Minnesota senator is not running in the primaries, but he has said he would accept a draft at the Democratic convention in July.

Easter Sunday found noncandidates and candidates alike keeping a low profile. Most spent the day at home with their families.

Jimmy Carter, the leader in the early Democratic primaries, attended church in his hometown of Plains, Ga., then opened a new campaign headquarters there.

Carter promised a victory in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, telling 400 followers, "I don't intend to lose.

"We've got all the political big shots against us. But this is nothing new."

Carter has stops in Atlanta, Alexandria, La., and New Orleans today before flying to Houston for an overnight stay.

Rivals Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona spent Easter with their families in the Washington area. Udall later flew to Phoenix, where he planned several appearances today.

Sen. Frank Church, the latest entrant in the Democratic race, spent Sunday at his Boise home and was in Montana today prior to stumping through Nebraska.

On the Republican front, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan spent Easter in Los Angeles and had no campaign activities planned today. He hits the trail again Tuesday with a trip to Alabama and Georgia.

President Ford relaxed at Camp David over the weekend and planned to stay in the capital until Thursday, when he starts a two-day campaign swing through Indiana and Georgia, which both have May 4 primaries.

Thunderstorms hit Texas hard

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms over eastern Texas today continued to prompt severe thunderstorm warnings. The storms held the threat of additional flash flooding in the already rain soaked areas of Texas.

The infant twin boys were missing and feared drowned Sunday night after being swept from their father's grip and into raging flood waters on U.S. 59 in Goliad County in south Texas when their parents fled their flood-threatened car and tried to reach higher ground on foot.

Heavy rains caused Texas authorities to close the 23-mile stretch of U.S. 59 between Goliad and Victoria.

Skies were clear early today over the southwest, the central plateau region, the central and northern plains and most of the nation east of the Mississippi.

Showers and thunderstorms were scattered along a line running from the central Great Lakes region through Arkansas. Widely scattered showers covered the western Great Lakes, the northern Rockies to the west central plains and the southern tip of Florida.

King Gustav at church

CHICAGO (AP) — About 400 persons lined the streets to watch King Carl XVI Gustav of Sweden arrive for Easter services at Ebenezer Lutheran Church in a northside Swedish community.

The monarch, in the midst of a 27-day visit to the United States, had arrived in Chicago on Saturday, but a sore throat forced him to cancel a news conference. A spokesman said Sunday that the king was feeling much better.

The king is scheduled to leave for Detroit on Tuesday.

Navy no place for baby

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Kathleen A. Clark said no when the Navy offered to discharge her after she became pregnant 20 months ago. She's changed her mind, but now the Navy is saying no to her application for discharge.

Mrs. Clark said she realized she had been wrong to think she could raise her baby and at the same time continue working as a Wave at the Key West Naval Air Station.

Her commanding officer agreed to her new request for discharge, and her psychiatrist, social worker and pediatrician all added their opinions that leaving the Navy would be a good thing for her.

But the Navy's top brass has turned her down, despite her pleas that she has an infant in need of care, a husband away at school and a job she has grown to hate.

"I don't know what it takes," said the 22-year-old Wave. "I've seen a lot of people get out — pushed out. I could become a lesbian. I could smoke pot. Believe me, there are a lot of ways like that, but I just want a regular discharge."

No Elvis marriage

ATHENS, Ala. (AP) — First Iladean Tribble said she would marry entertainer Elvis Presley on Saturday. Now she says she didn't, but won't tell why.

"This is the Sabbath day and I don't talk about things like this on the Lord's day," the 42year-old widowed mother of four said Sunday when asked why the wedding hadn't taken place.

There was no comment from Presley, 41. However, a frequent Presley spokesman, Dr. George Nicholoupos, maintained that reports of the wedding were "not true."

The police department in this north Alabama town Saturday estimated about 150 persons milled around First Baptist Church, hoping to get a glimpse of Presley after Mrs. Tribble announced Friday she would marry him.

Gorshin hurt on ski slope

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "That's the last time I'll try to do an impression of JeanClaude Killy," impressionist Frank Gorshin said from a hospital bed.

The entertainer made the remark Sunday about the former Olympic champion skier from Century City Hospital, where he was taken for surgery after falling on the ski slopes at Park City, Utah.

Doctors said Gorshin severed knee ligaments and damaged cartilage. He'll be on crutches for six weeks.

Marie Osmond cut in cras

NEPHI, Utah (AP) — Pop singer Marie Osmond, 16, cut her face and her mother injured her ribs when Marie drove a car into a trailer her father was towing.

Marie was treated and released from Utah Valley Hospital after the collision Saturday night on a highway 40 miles south of the Osmond family home in Provo. Her mother, Olive, was listed in Satisfactory condition there on Sunday.

The highway patrol said Marie was driving a 1973 Mercedes when it struck the rear of a rental trailer towed by a van driven by her father, George Osmond. Others in the 11-member family of entertainers were in cars following behind the two vehicles involved in the accident.

Lawyer challenges ABA

CHICAGO (AP) — A Texas lawyer is challenging the traditional no-contest election for American Bar Association president by running against the ABA's official nominee.

Leroy Jeffers, past head of the Texas Bar Association and a law partner of former Texas Gov. John Connally, says he is crusading against what he called the "elite handful of men" who run the ABA.

Jeffers said Saturday he represents dissatisfied rank-and file lawyers who are tired of the legal profession "retreating, surrendering, compromising, and apologizing."

He is pitted against Atlanta attorney William B. Spann, who was nominated in February at a meeting of ABA state delegates. Under the usual procedure, Spann would be unanimously elected at the August meeting of the group's House of Delegates.

The Citizens Committee to Recall Rizzo has 60 days t obtain 145,000 valid signatures — 25 per cent of the tota vote cast in the last mayoral election.

Pam-Am Highway dream could become nightmare

CANITA, Panama (AP) — American environmentalists and cattlemen are worried about a dream coming true in the Darien jungle of Panama.

They fear the dream — completion of the Pan American Highway — may really be a nightmare of economic disaster in the United States and bring ecological havoc to one of the world's last truly wild frontiers.

The Pan American Highway snakes from Alaska deep into South America, a 500-year-old dream brought to reality by 20th century American technology and American money. Only one short stretch remains to be completed through thick jungle rain forest and across primitive swamp in eastern Panama and western Colombia.

That stretch is called the Darien Gap. The U.S. Congress has already spent $58.4 million trying to close the gap and likely will have to spend at least that much more before the road is finished.

If it is ever finished.

No one really knows what might happen when the Gap, nature's natural barrier between North and South America, is closed.

Environmentalists stopped American participation in the project Oct. 17 when a U.S. district court in Washington, D.C., ordered funds withheld until an environmental impact study could be made.

The government won the court's permission Dec. 23 to continue the work until the study is finished and the court can make a definitive ruling.

A draft of that study is finished and it paints a grim picture of what might happen.

The Darien rain forests are so wild and so unexplored that the scientists really do not know what animals or vegetation are there, much less what the opening of the two-lane highway might do to them.

"The tropical forests exhibit the highest primary productivity of terrestrial vegetation types in the world," the draft report, prepared by the Department of Transportation and Federal Highway Commission says. "Thus the Darien forests are part of a unique ecological-biological resource."

Not much harm will be done by the highway itself, a two-lane strip hacked through the forest, but secondary effects after the jungle is open to civilization could be enormous and the road could endanger the entire American livestock industry.

Aftosa hoof and mouth disease is one of the most communicable diseases in the world. It rarely affects man, although he can be one of the greatest carriers of the disease. But it decimates cattle herds, swine and cloven hooved wildlife. The last major outbreak of the disease in the United States, in 1914-15, cost $5.8 million when 3,556 cattle herds in 22 states became infected.

The environmental impact study predicts that if an outbreak of proportional size occurred in the United States now it would cost the domestic livestock industry $10 billion dollars a year.

Cows with aftosa develop blisters in the mouth and on the teats. It causes a tremendous loss in milk and meat production.

"Effective control cannot be claimed" in more than a few areas of the world, the draft study says. Aftosa is under control from Canada south through Panama. But it is epidemic in neighboring Colombia and endemic as far south as Argentina. The Darien Gap, and the 25-by-90 mile swamp, has served as a barrier to the disease. The 1914-15 outbreak is thought to have been caused by imported hides. The virus can spread on a cattleman's boots, in a ship's garbage or by wild animals.

Use of American funds to build the highway in Colombia depends on that country taking effective measures to eliminate aftosa.

"To date this program has failed to accomplish all of the objectives agreed upon. The program is moving very slowly and, unless it is speeded up, will not provide the protection necessary."

Washington has agreed to pay 90 per cent of the aftosa control costs in Panama and this country "has indicated it will close the Darien Gap highway to private traffic, if necessary, to control the spread of aftosa if an outbreak should occur," the report says. Panama already operates five rail and three coastal aftosa inspection stations.

The Darien comprises about one third of Panama's territory. It is a densely forested, 77,882 square kilometer area with less than one person per square kilometer. Some of the residents are remote primitive Indians. A kilometer is ⅝ of a mile.

"Environmental changes in the form of forest clearings and settlement growth will have adverse affects, especially at the expense of the Indians who will probably move their settlements farther and farther back from the roads," the report says. "The biggest change in commitments of resources will be loss of the isolation factor in the central Darien province. Cultural changes will involve the mixing of language, religions and economy."

New plant and wildlife species are still being discovered in the Darien but not enough is known about the area to say what plants or animals might be endangered by opening the territory, the report said.

Several animals on the Department of the Interior endangered species list thrive in the Darien. These include jaguars, ocelots, margay, Geoffroy's spider monkey, the red-backed squirrel monkey, bush dogs, giant anteaters, Central American tapirs, the American caiman and the American alligator.

The rain forest also hides disease. It is not the place for a Sunday picnic. Three types of malaria affecting humans have been identified. Yellow fever is still a danger. Some of the most poisonous snakes in the world lie here. There are also poisonous plants and fish.

"Given all the circumstances of life in the Darien Gap area, health and safety hazards are without limit," the report says, "and the present possibility of coping with them is slight."

It is likely that the road will be finished, even without American help, because it is so important to Panama.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

EASY WAYS TO SAVE MONEY.

Use your appliances wisely.

Two years ago, just about everyone realized our nation had energy problems. Today, some people aren't sure those problems still exist.

They do. Our country's energy problems are still very real. And the imported low-sulphur fuel oil required for generating electricity is extremely expensive. So, it makes sense to save our country's energy. And our energy-saving suggestions can save you money, too.

Don't forget to turn off the TV. Even if you just plan to be out of the room for a short time, shut off the television. It only takes a second to turn it back on.

If you own two TV's, get the family in front of one as often as possible. No sense having the same program on two sets.

Also, if your television has the "instant-on" feature, pull the plug when you're done watching. That saves energy, too.

How to cut kilowatts with other appliances. ☐ A 40-watt fluorescent lamp will produce more light than a 100-watt incandescent bulb, and costs you less for energy. But whatever kind of light you use, don't forget to turn it off when not in use.

☐ In your washer and dryer, launder only full loads. And you can use warm water instead of hot for almost all your clothes.

☐ Unless you have a dishwasher, you generally don't need the 140°-150° setting on your water heater. Often you can use an energy-saving 110°-120°.

☐ Normally, it takes less hot water for a shower than a bath. If you take a shower, make it a short one. Or use less water if you take a bath.

☐ Repair leaky faucets. Wasting water wastes the energy to pump it to your home. And hot water wastes even more, the energy used to heat it.

☐ Avoid opening your refrigerator or freezer unnecessarily. Instead, remove the items you need at one time.

Academy Award fallout

'Cuckoo' lays golden egg

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — It's an old Hollywood tradition that a big hit movie makes stars out of everybody in it. An actor can give a tremendous performance in a flop, but that doesn't mean a thing. But give him a bit role in a huge hit and he's off and running.

The big hit of '75 — carrying over into '76 — was "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which took top honors at the Academy Awards. And the tradition is working overtime on that one.

Co-producer Michael Douglas is giving up his acting career, on the strength of "Cuckoo," to concentrate on his first love, producing. Director Milos Forman is now the most sought-after director in Hollywood, and the honors are piling up on his mantel piece.

Jack Nicholson already was a star; now he's bigger than ever. Louise Fletcher, a total unknown, has become a lady who can pick and choose parts.

The joy extends even down to the supporting players. Brad Dourif, who played young Billy Bibbit, got an Academy Award nomination. Sidney Lassick, the tearful Cheswick of the piece, could easily have gotten one.

Both of the men are now in the enviable position of getting lots of offers. For Dourif, a young actor, this means the beginning of what will probably be a long and noble career. The golden opportunity, however, is even more dramatic for Lassick, who is no youngster.

BRAD DOURIF

SIDNEY LASSICK

His life, and what's happened to him since "Cuckoo," could easily make a movie in itself. Sidney Lassick is a man who dreamed of acting but, apparently, was never going to realize that dream.

He's from Chicago and his big claim to fame, until now, was that he's Shecky Greene's cousin. As a boy, he always wanted to act and was always fascinated by movies.

"I lived across the street from a little theater, the Grand," he says. "I'd deliver leaflets for the owner, and he'd let me in to see all the movies free. I went every day, and I became a big movie buff."

He acted in high school. At 13, he ran away to California to crash Hollywood, but they brought him home. He went into the Army and, when he was discharged, came to California for good.

He went to the Pasadena Playhouse and was spotted in a play by an agent, who signed him. He was immediately put in a starring role in a film, but the film was never released.

"That set my career back 30 years," Lassick says.

For the fun of it, he went to the audition for parts in "Cuckoo," and he surprised even himself by landing a good part.

"The film," he says, "has made me hot. It's a big break and I hope to cash in on it. In fact, I'm even thinking of giving up my job with the trucking firm."

Brad Dourif's story is different. Young, good-looking and talented, his break was almost certain to happen sooner or later. It happened sooner.

In New York, he studied acting for four years. He did a few things off-Broadway, and one of them was a hit — "When Are You Coming Back, Red Ryder?" Then he went to the auditions for "Cuckoo."

He says Milos Forman conducted the auditions as though they were a group therapy session, such as the ones in the film.

"Forman would say, 'I'll be Big Nurse, you be patients,' and then we'd all have to improvise things. He'd keep feeding us some lines, but we'd have to build on them. I went back three times."

Like Lassick, he's had many offers since "Cuckoo" burst through. The Oscar nomination accelerated that trend. Since the film, he's done a play and a show for PBS, and he's signed to do another PBS production.

MILLION DOLLAR BUNTER

Atlanta's million dollar investment, Andy Messersmith, bunts down the first base line in Sunday's game with his ex-mates the Dodgers. Messersmith was thrown out on the play, but hurled four innings of one-run ball as the Braves downed L.A. 7-6 in Atlanta. The game marked Messersmith's debut in a Brave uniform.

Dodgers will miss Andy

HOUSTON (AP)— "There's no question about what his capabilities are. He was not as sharp as he'll get in a couple more outings. He's going to help that ball club. We are going to miss that guy," said catcher Steve Yeager, commenting on his former Dodger teammate, Andy Messersmith, after Tos Angeles lost to the Atlanta Braves, 7-6.

The 19-game winner from last season pitched only four innings, leaving with a 3-1 lead in a game the Braves eventually won on the strength of ex-Dodger Jim Wynn's three-run homer in the sixth inning.

"I'm the last guy in the world that wanted to take him out of a ball game," said Dave Bristol, manager of the Atlanta Braves. "But we plan to have him a lot longer than just Easter Sunday."

Bristolsaid it hadn't dawned on him that Messersmith, making his debut Sunday against the Dodgers, needed only one more inning to qualify for the victory, which went to Elias Sosa, last of four Braves hurlers.

"That makes no difference," said Messersmith, who said he would have liked to pitch more.

"But that's what they decided and I understand their thinking," said Messersmith, who gained his free agent status through an historic arbitration case, a judgment which was upheld by two federal courts. "I feel very good. I'm glad it's over, I'll tell you that."

Messersmith said he was nervous at the start and wondered how Atlanta fans would greet him. He didn't have to wait long to find out, getting a standing ovation when he strolled out of the clubhouse to begin warming up. He got another when he went to the mound for the first inning.

"That was super," he said.

"He's got control of a game," said Bristol. "I'm impressed with him more every time I'm around him. I thought I'd have to take a gun to get him out. When I told him, he said, 'I'm a bull.'"

Messersmith walked three, fanned three, allowed three hits and gave up a run on Ivan DeJesus' two-out double in the second.

The Braves had taken a 3-0 lead in the first on Ken Henderson's two-run single and ex-Dodger Lee Lacy's run-scoring single.

Atlanta appeared to be coasting after erupting for four more in the sixth, the first on ex-Dodger Jerry Royster's single and the other three on Wynn's first homer as a Brave.

But Los Angeles chased relievers Roger Moret and Adrian Devine with a five-run seventh that included RBI singles by Bill Buckner, Steve Garvey and Joe Ferguson and a run-scoring double by former Brave Dusty Baker.

Wynn's homer came on a knuckleball against Charlie Hough, one he almost lifted off the ground.

"Messersmith told me I need a one iron for it," said Wynn, who added he was wondering when he's get his first RBI as a brave. "It took so long, but it's over now and I can relax and be myself."

The Dodgers, who have lost six of their first seven starts, open a four-game series with Houston tonight in the Astrodome.

Boston Bruins get momentum

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Coach Don Cherry says his team has the momentum now, and the Bruins will try to turn that momentum into a victory Tuesday night when they meet the Los Angeles Kings in the fifth game of their Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

Boston posted a 3-0 victory Saturday night in Los Angeles to even the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

"That was a big victory for us," Cherry said. "It swung the momentum back to us. Now we just have to keep it going."

Cherry was hardly taking Los Angeles lightly, however.

"The Kings are a good team and it's going to be tough from here on in," he said. "But we do have two out of three games in Boston, and we're ready."

Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers, who shut out the Kings in the fourth game, said, "It was a big win for us, but this thing certainly isn't over yet. The Kings are a good team, and we certainly can't take them lightly."

The Kings, too, were not conceding anything.

"We've split in four games now," said Los Angeles' Butch Goring. "Now it's who wants to win the most. If we want to win, we can do it."

Los Angeles Coach Bob Pulford said, "We didn't play well in our last game, but it's a seven-game series, and we just have to win there."

After Tuesday's clash in Boston, the series moves back to Los Angeles Thursday night. A final game, if necessary, will be played in Boston Saturday.

One of the keys of the latest Bruin victory was Andre Savard's defensive job on Marcel Dionne, the high-scoring Kings center. Savard allowed Dionne just two shots at the net, after Dionne had scored three goals for the Kings in their earlier 6-4 victory.

Gregg Sheppard, Jean Ratelle and Don Marcotte struck for Boston goals and Cheevers turned back 27 shots in the Bruins' victory Saturday.

Angels hope to get Bonds back

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — Without Bobby Bonds the Angels are exhibiting two of the same characteristics that led to their flop in 1975.

(1) Hitting. (2) Winning at home.

The second is a direct result of the first.

On a bright, beautiful Easter Sunday, the Halos got seven more hits and two more runs than they had scored Saturday. But all nine hits were singles and they produced only two runs.

As a result the Detroit Tigers scored a 6-2 win, their second in a row and dropped the Angels' home won-loss record to 1-5 before 8,938 disgruntled fans.

Manager Dick Williams has three important decisions to ponder.

(1) How soon to Activate Bonds? (2) What to do about pitcher Andy Hassler? (3) What to do about catcher Ed Herrmann?

"Bonds wanted to be activated today," Williams told writers in Sunday's post-game huddle. "Possibly he will be activated tomorrow (Monday). If he is, he'll be in the lineup because as soon as he is activated I want him to play.

"His hand strength has increased greatly. They're using a weight thing to measure it now and he's up to 400 pounds out of a 420 maximum as compared to 120 pounds the first day the cast was removed."

The Halo skipper wisely is resisting the temptation to activate the Riverside flash too soon and risk re-injury.

"He's like a caged animal now," Williams said of Bonds. "But I'd rather be absolutely certain he's all right rather than have him get in there and hurt it again and maybe require a pin there and be out 6-8 weeks."

The decision on Hassler is not so immediate. But Williams has these things to ponder.

Hassler (0-2) was pounded for eight of the 14 Detroit hits and all six runs in just 3 2/3 innings Sunday. Included were three doubles . . . the only extra base hits the Tigers had.

The big lefthander now has lost 13 straight and hasn't won since a year ago April 29. His earned run average, an even 6.00 before the game, zoomed to plus nine.

"Hassler's spot in the rotation is in jeopardy," admitted Williams. "But we have four days (until his next start) to make a decision. I want to discuss it with Andy, and Billy (pitching coach Billy Muffet). And I want to see how (Gary) Ross' finger is."

Ross, the veteran obtained from San Diego in exchange for Bobby Valentine and Rudy Meoli, was impressive in his first start Saturday and sports a 2.61 ERA for 10 plus innings this season.

As far as what to do about Herrmann, the Halo manager would not admit he is considering any change yet.

But thus far the bulky receiver has demonstrated that he is the great "moveless object" behind home plate. In the Angels' most flagrant display of ineptitude yet this season, lumbering Willie Horton was able to SCORE FROM FIRST ON A SINGLE and ended up hurdling Herrmann as he lay on his stomach on the basepath near home plate!

In the third inning with Horton on first and two out and a run in, Rusty Staub hit a long drive to centerfield. Rusty Torres got the ball on the bounce and threw to cutoff man Jerry Remy.

Meanwhile Tigers third base coach Joe Schultz had waved the 5-9, 215-pound Horton around.

Remy had delayed making a throw while he looked to see where the runners were. His throw to Herrmann was to the third base side of the plate and the big catcher fell as he caught the ball.

Horton, pounding up the basepath like a runaway locomotive, simply hurdled the inert Herrmann who waved the ball feebly as the squat Horton ricocheted over him.

Against Oakland, Herrmann disdained throwing the ball to his pitcher in trying to cut down a runner scoring on a wild pitch. With the pitcher standing at the plate waiting for the throw well ahead of the runner, Herrmann elected to try to beat the runner himself and ended up diving at the runner as he slid safely across the plate.

Herrmann hits and hits with power. But runners are taking liberties with both his arm and his head. His throwing has been either just a hair late or a hair off target.

ANGEL ANGLES — Baltimore opens a three game series tonight (7:30 p.m.) which is also Family Night. Frank Tanana (0-1) faces Mike Cuellar (0-1). The other matchups are Nolan Ryan (1-1) vs. Ross Grimsley (0-1) Tuesday and Don Kirkwood (0-1) vs. Jim Palmer (1-1) Wednesday.

"You won't see Horton score from first on a single often," admitted Williams. "(Dave) Chalk should have yelled (at Remy thus directing the throw). It was a combination of not yelling and getting set (for the play)."

Total attendance for the season to date is 93,718, up 6,836 over the first six games last year.

Montreal in sweep

CHICAGO (AP) — The one thing you can say for the Montreal Canadiens is that they don't kick a guy when he's down.

The Canadiens wiped out the Chicago Black Hawks in four straight games in their best-of-seven quarter-final playoffs with a 4-1 triumph in the only Sunday game in the National Hockey League.

But, the winners couldn't say enough nice things about the losers.

"...they (the Hawks) had always to play from behind, but they kept the pressure on us in the last three games and really made us work," said Pete Mahovlich, who scored the tie-breaking goal Sunday night late in the second period. "We did not have an easy time because they certainly skated as well as we did."

Montreal Goal Ken Dryden chimed in: "The Hawks certainly have a better hockey team than the scores indicated. But for us, it was playing well together and doing the right thing at the right time. In all honesty, there was very little difference in the play of either team, except for the first game."

And Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman claimed, "We certainly did not overpower the Black Hawks in this series. It's pretty tough to win four straight games from anybody...We beat a good hockey team tonight, one that never gave up."

The other quarter-final series are still underway with all three sets tied 2-2. Saturday night, the New York Islanders dumped the Buffalo Sabres 4-2, the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the Philadelphia Flyers 4-3 and the Boston Bruins blanked the Los Angeles Kings 3-0. The next round for each series comes Tuesday.

Mahovlich's go-ahead goal in the second period came when he took a pass from Steve Shutt in a power-play situation and calmly stroked the puck into the net.

Mahovlich assisted on another goal midway in the final period when he stole the puck from Dale Tallon and passed it to Guy Lafleur, who scored from 12 feet out.

Records may fall at MSAC Relays

Field events may again be the highlight of the annual Mt. San Antonio Relays set for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Numerous field event world records have been set at Mt. Sac since the meet's inception in 1959 and the possibility of more world records during the 18th Relays is very real.

Leading the field events is Dave Roberts of the Florida Track Club, current holder of the world outdoor amateur pole vault record of 18-6½. After a fine early season start in 1975, Roberts set his record at the Florida Relays in late March, surpassing the 1972 standard of Bob Seagren. Then illness and injuries slowed the former Rice vaulter and he didn't compete after May 6.

A 17-8 indoor vault this season indicates Roberts is still very much among the world's best. Challenging him at the Mt. San Antonio Relays will be several other fine vaulters, including Mike Tully (UCLA), Casey Carrigan (Pacific Coast Club), Larry Jesse (Maccabi Track Club) and Roland Carter (Gulf Coast) with a 1975 best of 18'½".

The high jump also features a strong field. Tom Woods of the PCC will lead the pack. Ranked second in the world and the U.S. in 1975 by Track & Field News behind world record-holder Dwight Stones, Woods will bring a best of 7-5½ into the Relays. His strongest threat will come from teammate Rory Kotinek, third-ranked last year with a best of 7-5.

The horizontal jumps both appear to boast exciting fields representing both youth and experience. Newcomers like Jerry Herndon and Willie Banks of UCLA will be testing veterans such as Arnie Robinson, Bouncy Moore, and Jerry Proctor of the Maccabi T.C. in the long jump.

Robinson was the top-ranked American long jumper in 1975 and fourth in the world on the basis of his consistent performances topped by a best of 27-2¼. He is the defending MSAC Relays long jump champ.

Also threatening Robinson's chances for a repeat win will be the Pacific Coast Club's Danny Seay who was ranked No. 2 in the U.S. behind Robinson with a best of 26-8.

Banks, the youngster out of Oxnard who is proving to be one of the most exciting athletes at UCLA track meets, heads the triple jump field with a best of 55-1.

Discus thrower Mac Wilkins of the PCC will return to the Relays again this year to try to improve on his runnerup performance here last year. While ranked sixth in the world among 1975's crop of discus throwers, Wilkins must surely be ranked first in durability.

The 6-4, 238 lb. Oregonian competed in no less than 27 outdoor contests in 1975 with his best effort a 219-1 throw in international competition in Copenhagen. Only teammate John Powell ranks high than Wilkins among U.S. throwers.

Bill Schmidt, PCC, will lead the javelin hopefuls with a '75 best of 266-5. The veteran thrower was the eighth-ranked American last year.

Field events in the invitational portion of the MSAC Relays will get underway at 1:15 p.m. Saturday. The Relays has a streamlined look with only invitational events on Saturday afternoon.

Reserved seat tickets good for all three days of the Relays are now available for advanced sale. Call the MSAC Relays office at (714) 598-2811 for ticket information.

Is Kentucky next target?

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The rich campaign for California's colts has reached its climax and the Kentucky Derby is the next target. Or is it?

The Hollywood Derby, worth $240,250 in added money, capped the inaugural California Golden Triple. The Triple produced three different winners— Telly's Pop March 13 at Golden Gate Fields in the $150,000 California Derby, An Act in the $150,000 Santa Anita Derby March 28, and here Saturday it was Crystal Water.

The Hollywood Derby was billed as a race off between An Act and Telly's Pop. In a way it was. An Act finished fifth and Telly's Pop sixth in the field of 11.

Crystal Water, the second betting choice behind An Act with a crowd of 48,220, with Telly's Pop third at the windows, was ridden by Bill Shoemaker. It was The Shoe's sixth Hollywood Derby victory.

"This is a good colt," said Shoemaker. He added, "I think he'd be worthy enough to send to Kentucky if Mrs. Ring wanted to go. I don't know how he compares with some of those Eastern horses but I wouldn't mind finding out."

Leos, Stags preparing for SCIAC showdown

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne and Claremont-Mudd resume SCIAC competition Tuesday.

The first place Leos, 9-2 in the conference and 15-14 overall, meet the second place Stags, 10-4 in the SCIAC and 17-10 overall, at C-M at 3 p.m.

La Verne has not played since splitting a doubleheader with the Stags at La Verne, April 10. After a four-day vacation, the Leos practiced Friday and Saturday and had another practice scheduled today.

"We're ready," said coach Ben Hines. "I think the week off might have jacked us ups. It was a refreshing rest. The kids came back and were real eager in practice. I was impressed with their attitude."

Hines will send Jim Vallone (5-6) against Claremont-Mudd. Then the Leopards are off until Saturday when they host last place Caltech (1-8) in a noon twinbill.

While La Verne had the week off, the Stags were winning two of three games from nationally ranked Grand Canyon College in Phoenix, Ariz.

Norm Richards (5-5) beat the Antelopes, 4-2, Thursday. Joe Maiberger (9-2) went three innings before the Friday game was called because of snow and temperatures in the 30's.

Maiberger pitched an inning in the first game Saturday in relief of winner Mitch Katlin. The Stags played two games and won the first, 3-2 but dropped the nightcap, 15-4.

Coach Bill Arce will have Maiberger and Richards primed for Tuesday's game although it is uncertain which one will start.

Don January glad he showed up

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — His aging bones were growing wearier from the stresses of a sport dominated by younger men. Don January sat for awhile and thought he'd pass up the Tournament of Champions.

"I'd played a lot this year, eight weeks out of nine," said the 46-year-old self-styled elder statesman of the pro golf tour. "I was kinda tired and I wasn't too hot about playing."

But the challenge—and the money, definitely the money— of the prestigious $225,000 event made the old pro reconsider.

"Last week at the Masters I decided it was silly. Here I am playing golf for a living and they're putting up a $225,000 pot for only 22 fellows to shoot at, and I can get $4,347 even if I'm last."

From the first swing of his driver on the La Costa Country Club course, last place was never a threat to the slow-moving, easy-going Texas native. He built a five-stroke lead through three rounds, easily survived a front-nine threat from young Ben Crenshaw, and completed one of sport's most unusual comebacks Sunday with a front-running five-stroke victory for the $45,000 first prize.

January grinned.

"I'm right glad I decided to play," he said with that characteristic drawl after becoming the oldest tour winner since 1968, when 48-year-old Julius Boros won the Westchester Classic.

There had been a 2½-year retirement for the poker-faced veteran who decided that he had played on enough golf courses to make a new career of designing and building them.

But again, something made him change his mind.

Sunday he reaped the profits, carding a final-round 69 for a 277 total, 11 under par and five strokes better than Hubert Green over the windswept, 6,855-yard, par-72 layout.

He had taken the San Antonio-Texas Open, the last individual tournament of the 1975 season, to win his way into this elite event which admits only champions of U.S. tour events over the last 12 months. And though in 1972 he had thought he'd had his fill of the pro grind, now there are plans for the future.

The triumph "got me in the Masters next year and it got me in the World Series of Golf," he observed.

Not to mention the prize which boosted his winnings to $95,706—by far the best of his two-decade career. He did it with rounds of 71, 68, 69 and 69 in picking up his 12th career title and second in this event which he also won in 1968.

Only Crenshaw and Bruce Crampton threatened the old man in a final round which became simply a battle for second place after January birdied the 15th hole with a putt of some 25 feet to take a three-stroke lead with three holes to play.

Green, a three-time winner this season, took second place and $27,000 with a 69 for a 282 total after Crampton—who had come within two strokes of January on the front nine despite a painful stress-fractured rib—made a costly double bogey six on the final hole.

Crampton needed only a par on 18 to hold second alone, but missed the fairway, was short of the green, chipped poorly and then three-putted to finish at 283 for a third-place tie with defending champion Al Geiberger.

British Open champ Tom Watson and Art Wall were the only others to finish the tourney with sub-par totals. Watson's final 69 was good for a two-under-par 286, Wall hit 70 for 287 while runaway Masters winner Ray Floyd skied to 72-290.

The tournament, sponsored by Mutual of New York, was played without Jack Nicklaus, who chose not to compete. Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and Gary Player, who haven't won U.S. tour events in the last 12 months, were not eligible.

Home court no help for Bucks, 76ers

By Associated Press

Remember the home-court advantage, that much-ballyhooed edge for which various National Basketball Association teams scratched and clawed at each other through the final weeks of the regular season?

Well, the Philadelphia 76ers and Milwaukee Bucks will have all summer to try and find out where it went.

Both teams were eliminated from the NBA playoffs Sunday in the type of games in which the home-court advantage is supposed to be most prominent—close, hard-fought, pressure-packed contests, where everything is on the line. Both were playing before enthusiastic crowds at their home arenas—and both were beaten.

The Buffalo Braves, trailing by as many as 11 points in the third period, nipped Philadelphia 124-123 in overtime; the Detroit Pistons, whose 36-46 regular season record equals the worst of any team ever to reach the NBA playoffs, edged Milwaukee 107-104.

Both were the deciding games of best-of-three preliminary round series, and the survivors are now matched againt the top clubs in the two conferences. Detroit opens its best-of-seven series against the defending NBA champion Golden State Warriors in Oakland Tuesday and Buffalo begins play against the Boston Celtics in Boston Wednesday.

In the only other NBA playoff game Sunday, the Phoenix Suns beat the Seattle SuperSonics 103-91 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

The fourth quarter-final matchup, between the Cleveland Cavaliers and Washington Bullets, resumes Wednesday night in Landover, Md., with Cleveland holding a 2-1 advantage.

John Shumate, who is getting used to bouncing out of hospital beds, made one of his fastest recoveries over the weekend— and it proved fatal to the 76ers.

Shumate, who sat out last season with a blood disease, was felled by a wayward elbow Saturday night. He suffered a concussion, needed four stitches and spent the night in Buffalo's Millard Fillmore Hospital.

But when tap time rolled around Sunday, the rugged rookie forward was back in uniform for Buffalo. And he responded with 43 solid minutes, scoring 11 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter and four in overtime, when the Braves needed them the most.

Shumate said he was feeling dizzy before the game. "I was almost tempted to tell (Coach) Jack Ramsay that I couldn't play," he said. "I didn't do it because then Jack would have kept me out."

Shumate, who hit 10 of 12 shots from the field and grabbed 10 rebounds, said he felt dizzy and tired during the fourth period and was a little woozy during the overtime. But the patient survived; it was the 76ers who died.

He ably supported superstar Bob McAdoo, who was his usual self with 34 points and 22 rebounds. McAdoo, who had 15 points in the third period as the Braves erased an 11-point deficit, sent the game into overtime—after Philadelphia had scored six in a row—by sinking a pair of free throws with just one second left on the clock after being fouled by Clyde Lee of the 76ers.

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue, meanwhile, said the turning point came with 8:50 remaining, when Philadelphia's George McGinnis fouled out after scoring just 15 points. Guards Fred Carter and Doug Collins led the 76ers with 32 and 25 points, respectively, while Jim McMillian had 25 for the Braves.

Bob Lanier scored 28 points for the Pistons and Curtis Rowe 20, but it was a steal and a basket by Chris Ford with 18 seconds left which finally beat the Bucks.

It was Detroit's 12th victory in the last 16 games and prompted Herb Brown, who took over as coach in mid-season, to exclaim: "Maybe now people will finally believe the Detroit Pistons are a real entity!"

The Pistons took the lead to stay at 103-102 on a jump shot by 34-year-old Archie Clark with 1:16 to play. After each team missed a shot, Ford swiped an inbounds pass by rookie Dave Meyers and scoring the big basket. Two free throws by Lanier with 13 seconds left sewed it up.

Brian Winters led the Bucks with 33 points.

Dick Van Arsdale, his left wrist fractured two months ago and still in a splint, came off the bench to score 15 points and give Phoenix a big boost against Seattle. He also held Fred Brown to 16 points after the Sonics' backcourtman had scored 79 in the first two games.

Phoenix led 51-47 at the half but stretched it to 78-61 after a strong third period, and Seattle never threatened.

Garfield Heard and Paul Westphal shared scoring honors for Phoenix with 16 points each. Curtis Perry and Alvan Adams added 14 apiece.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Naber of Southern Cal, the nation's premiere backstroke swimmer, has been named March's Athlete of the Month by the Citizen Savings Athletic Foundation.

The honor announced Monday paid tribute to Naber's outstanding performance in the NCAA swimming championships at Providence, R.I.

Naber, a junior from Menlo Park, competed in 12 races at the championships, winning the 100 and 200-yard backstroke events. He also finished second in the 500-yard freestyle, and was a member of three title-winning Trojan teams as USC wrapped up the team title.

The Trojan junior was the high point man at the championships with 45 points.

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Paul Schilleci, a 6-foot-8 ½, 220-pound basketball player from Golden West Junior College in Huntington Beach, Calif., has signed a national letter of intent to play for Washington State University, school officials say.

WSU head basketball Coach George Raveling announced the signing Saturday. "I think any coach will tell you Paul was the best junior college prospect on the coast this year," Raveling said.

Schilleci averaged 21.9 points and 14 rebounds per game at Golden West last season. He tallied 41 points in his best game of the season.

"He is an outstanding prospect and one of his strongest assests is his jumping ability," Raveling said. "He has a 38-inch vertical leap."

Schilleci joins 6-foot-10 Stuart House of Detroit and 6-foot-8 John Preston of Pontiac, Mich., who signed with the Cougars earlier this week.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Tour rookie Gary Koch calmly fired a two-under par 70 for an 11-under par 277 total to defeat John Mahaffey by one stroke in the $80,000 Tallahassee Open.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Judy Rankin made a shambles of the $80,000 Phoenix Ladies Professional Golf Tournament, winning the $14,000 first prize by seven strokes over Sandra Post.

AKRON, Ohio — Marshall Holman, 21, became the youngest bowler ever to win the $125,000 Tournament of Champions when he defeated Billy Hardwick 203-198.

KEAUHOU-KONA, Hawaii — Illie Nastase fought back a determined Rod Laver 7-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 to gain a semifinal berth in the $320,000 World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup tournament.

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—Australian Tony Roche beat Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y. 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 to win $17,000 in the Charlotte Tennis Classic.

ATHENS, Greece — Natalia Maracescu of Romania shattered the world record in the women's 2,000 meters with a time of 5 minutes 43.94 seconds, eclipsing the previous mark of 5 minutes 48.08 seconds held by Grete Andersen of Norway.

Rams set schedule

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Rams open defense of their NFC Western Division championship at Atlanta Sunday, Sept. 12 and close the 14-game campaign at Detroit Saturday, Dec. 11, in the 1976 schedule released today by the National Football League.

Following their opener against the Falcons, the Rams stay on the road to face defending NFC Central Division champion Minnesota before making their first Coliseum appearance Sunday, Sept. 26, against the New York Giants.

The Rams will offer a replay of their 1975 NFC playoff slate when they host the defending titlists of the NFC Eastern Division, the St. Louis Cardinals, Sunday, Nov. 14.

Other Coliseum visitors include Los Angeles' Western Division foes, San Francisco Monday, Oct. 11; New Orleans Sunday, Nov. 28, and Atlanta Saturday, Dec. 4, plus the Chicago Bears Sunday, Oct. 17, and the Seattle Seahawks Sunday, Oct. 31.

Other road foes are Miami Sunday, Oct. 3; New Orleans Sunday, Oct. 24; Cincinnati Monday, Nov. 8, and San Francisco Sunday, Nov. 21.

For standings purposes this year, Seattle has been assigned to the NFC Western Division.

Three of the Rams foes were playoff contenders in 1975 — Minnesota, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Since owner Carroll Rosenbloom and head coach Chuck Knox joined up three years ago the Rams have been one of the NFL's top teams and have won 34 games while losing but 8. This propensity for winning has not gone unnoticed by the networks which have arranged a minimum of three national appearances for the colorful Rams, the Monday night games at San Francisco (Oct. 11) and at Cincinnati (Nov. 8) and the closer indoors at Detroit Saturday (Dec. 11).

Twin unknowns derail Catfish

By Associated Press

Catfish Hunter was rolling along, staring his second victory of the season in the face, when two light-hitting Twins derailed the New York Yankees' ace right-hander.

"I give up lot of guys' first home runs," Hunter sighed. "I'm used to it. It used to get me mad, but you can't do anything about it except try and get the next guy out."

The Yankees were leading 4-2 in the top of the ninth and Hunter had limited the Minnesota Twins to just five hits. But that was before Lyman Bostock and Butch Wynegar came to the plate.

Larry Hisle started the Twins' rally with a one-out single. Hunter then got a two-strike count on Bostock, who had not hit a home run in his 102 previous major league games.

"Munson (catcher Thurman) wanted the next pitch in the dirt," Hunter said, "but I reared back and tried to put a little extra on a breaking ball and threw it right down the middle."

"I didn't think it was going out," said Bostock, whose blast over the 353-foot mark in right-center tied the game. "A guy who doesn't hit any home runs doesn't know when the ball is gone."

Then came Wynegar, a 20-year-old rookie catcher with only five singles in 28 at-bats.

"Trying to follow Bostock's act I didn't know what to expect," Wynegar said. "But Hunter threw me a slider about waist-high."

The ball just cleared the right-field fence, Minnesota had a 5-4 victory and the Yankees had lost for the first time since opening day.

"I was just glad to get my first major league hit off Gaylord Perry when we opened in Texas," said Wynegar, a catcher, "but this tops even that."

Indians 6, Royals 0

Pat Dobson limited Kansas City to five hits through eight innings and Cleveland scored on errors and stolen bases to crush the Royals. John Lowenstein walked in the sixth, moved to third on a pair of groundouts, then stole home. In the first inning, Rick Manning tallied when loser Steve Busby threw away a pickoff throw. In the ninth, Manning stole second and came home when the throw bounced into center.

A's 2, Orioles 1

Larry Haney, batting for the first time this year, singled home Sal Bando with Oakland's winning run in the 12th inning over Baltimore. Bandho, who reached third when rookie left fielder Andres Mora dropped his long fly ball, got a second life at the plate when his foul ball dropped untouched near the Oakland dugout, setting off an argument.

Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson, who called for the ball, claimed Haney, waiting in the on-deck circle, blocked his path.

"I definitely had to push him out of the way," Robinson said, "but the umpires told me he wasn't in the way. As long as I've been playing, I've never had that happen before."

Former A's designated hitter Tommy Harper led off the game by belting a Vida Blue fastball into the seats. Oakland tied it up in the fourth when Bill North led off with a triple, the first hit off former A's pitcher Ken Holtzman, and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Pirates 7, Mets 5

Willie Stargell, starting pitcher Jerry Reuss and Rennie Stennett contributed run-scoring doubles in a six-run Pittsburgh fourth and the Pirates went on to beat the Mets. Reuss needed relief help from Ramon Hernandez in the ninth after New York's Dave Kingman smashed a three-run homer in the eighth. It was his second of the game and seventh of the season, high in the major leagues.

Giants 5, Reds 1

John Montefusco drove in a run and doubled while stifling Cincinnati's big bats, powering San Francisco over the Reds. Montefusco, 2-1, and Gary Lavelle combined to limit the Reds to five hits in their lowest offensive outing of the year. The Reds have been averaging almost nine runs per game.

"I just wanted to get past the second inning," said Montefusco, who had been humbled in two previous games with the Reds. "I've never done that against this club."

The cocky Montefusco also had another object in mind while beating the defending world champions.

"I want to make the All-Star team so I had to show (Cincinnati Manager) Sparky Anderson I'm worthy," he said.

Phillies 8, Cubs 5

Mike Schmidt hit his fifth homer in two games and pitcher Larry Christenson and catcher Bob Boone each doubled home two runs, leading Philadelphia over Chicago.

Earthquakes stop Aztecs

SAN JOSE (AP) — The San Jose Earthquakes got goals from Mark Liveric and Paul Child to beat the Los Angeles Aztecs 2-1 in a North American Soccer League game Saturday night.

Liveric scored from 20 yards out at 26:40 of the first half, and former Aztec player, Julie Vee, was credited with an assist on the goal.

Child's 10-yard boot at 55:00 of the second half gave San Jose a 2-0 lead.

John Mason kicked the only Los Angeles goal at 57:45.

Former English soccer star George Best got off only three shots for Los Angeles.

A standing room-only crowd of 19,807 attended the Earthquake's season opener at Spartan Stadium.

Spanish-American War

Ranks of America's oldest veterans fast being thinned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ranks of America's oldest veterans, those who fought in the Spanish-American War, dwindled below 1,000 in the past 12 months to 750. Many of them are still spry.

"They love the opportunity to reminisce and tell you how it was in the good old days," says a Veterans Administration counselor who helps their families watch over them.

In America's war with Spain, which started 78 years ago this month, 392,000 U.S. servicemen took part.

William E. Feindel, who will be 105 in August, became the nation's oldest veteran when Nelson Norton of Whitestown, Ind., died last year. Appropriately in this Bicentennial year, Feindel lives in Lexington, Mass.

The VA says the average age of the Spanish-American War veterans is 96, with several over 100. The youngest probably is 88, but the VA isn't sure.

Most of them require someone to help them get around and all are entitled to VA pensions. Many get special allowances if they are housebound or require help. That is how the VA keeps track of them.

The largest number live in California, 140. There are 60 with residences in the District of Columbia. About 45 live outside the United States, 30 of them in the Philippines.

The last Civil War veteran died in the 1950s and the last Indian Wars veteran died in 1973. But there are many widows and dependent children of both on the VA pension rolls.

The Spanish-American War veterans don't hold the big reunions they once did. But four were guests of VA social workers at a regional gathering in San Bernardino, Calif., last summer.

About 350 of the men are members of the United Spanish War Veterans, says Beulah M. Cope, the organization's adjutant general.

"There were 11 members at our national encampment in Indianapolis last year and we'll probably have the same number this year, along with more than 200 auxiliary members," she said. This year's encampment will be held in Madison, Wis., Sept. 18-23.

There are more than 29,559,000 American veterans, an increase of over 100,000 in the last six months of 1975. The largest segment, 13.5 million, saw service in World War II. There were 7.9 million veterans of the Vietnam era.

A wrinkle in new car radios

MIAMI (AP) — If you think your new General Motors car came equipped with an American-built GM radio, you'd better take a closer look. There's a good chance you've paid top dollar for a cheaper, foreign-made imitation.

Hundreds of GM dealers, primarily Chevrolet outlets, are making extra profits by installing Japanese radios for new car buyers who think they are getting radios made by Delco, a GM division. The customer pays the same retail price and apparently gets as good a product, but the Japanese radios cost the dealers only half as much as Delco's.

The problem is so widespread that Delco has placed advertisements in national magazines advising purchasers to "Tell your dealer 'Delco.' Don't settle for a look-alike radio in your new GM car."

John Crawford, general sales manager for Delco Electronics in Kokomo, Ind., said the firm also has started putting a standard Delco-GM trademark on its radios to help consumers identify them.

"Nationwide, we are seeing an erosion in sales," Crawford said.

Spokesmen for Ford and Chrysler said they knew of no such situation in their firms. A spokesman for American Motors said a preliminary check showed his company "may have a few isolated instances of this."

An Associated Press investigation has revealed that the switch works like this:

A dealer orders his cars without radios. The salesman asks a prospective purchaser whether he wants a radio in the car, and if so, which type — AM, AM-FM, etc.

If the customer says he wants a radio, the salesman pulls out a GM price book and quotes the price for a Delco unit. An AM pushbutton radio for a Chevrolet Vega retails in the book at $70 and costs the dealer $58.10.

But the radio actually installed is one of a number of imports designed to match the car's interior.

Mike Bassan, a spokesman for one such importer, Dyn Electronics of Miami, said his firm's imitations cost the dealer about $30.

This extra $28 profit, multiplied by thousands of cars, provides a tidy sum for the dealers.

Bassan said his firm sells radios to more than 300 dealers throughout the country, mostly GM dealers.

"They like us because of the kind of service we provide, one-week delivery and good quality," Bassan said.

Crawford said consumers often discover the switch when they have trouble with their radios.

Good said Chevrolet would like to force dealers to use Delco radios, but can't.

Neither Good nor any other GM official interviewed claimed the foreign-made radios were inferior in quality to Delco's, but he said, "We feel anything that relates to buying anything that isn't ours, the consumer should be advised."

But Bassan, the distributor of foreign radios, said consumers "don't care which radio they get, as long as it's working."

One killed, three hospitalized in accidents

Valley traffic accidents left one man dead and three other persons confined to hospitals over the weekend.

A La Crescenta man was killed Saturday night when the car in which he was riding rolled over on a freeway on-ramp in San Dimas.

The accident occurred on the westbound on-ramp to the Foothill Freeway from San Dimas Avenue. The victim, Herbert Henry Kapp, 32, was pronounced dead at San Dimas Community Hospital an hour and a half later.

The highway patrol said William B. Gordon, 32, of La Crescenta, was at the wheel when the car accelerated onto the on-ramp, skidded into the curb and rolled over down a 15-foot slope, throwing Kapp out. The vehicle came to rest on top of Kapp.

Gordon and passing motorists lifted the car from the victim. Gordon was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

A motorist was arrested Sunday afternoon after his car hit a man standing next to a parked automobile in 11th Street west of Buena Vista Avenue, Pomona police reported.

The driver, Ramon Vega, 38, 1488 W. 11th St., Pomona, was booked on suspicion of felonious drunken driving and charged additionally with supplying police with false information.

Vega was driving westbound in 11th Street shortly after 3:30 when his auto hit Richard D. Elias, 22, Pomona, and the open door of the car, police said. Elias was standing next to the vehicle, watching a stereo set being installed.

The victim was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where his condition today was reported fair. He had a cerebral concussion and leg injuries.

Police said Vega at first gave them someone else's driver's license, but later admitted having none in his possession. They quoted him as saying he was westbound when Elias suddenly appeared in front of his car.

In Ontario seven persons were injured with two hospitalized as a result of a two-car traffic accident in front of 1017 E. D St. about midnight Sunday.

Two passengers in the car driven by Donald Eugene Myrick, 18, of 1153 E. Elma St., Ontario remained at Ontario Community Hospital this morning in satisfactory condition. The two hospitalized were Donna Lindsey, 8, of 1153 E. Elma St. and Michael Ed Clayton, 6, of San Gabriel.

Treated and released for injuries suffered in the accident were Myrick, Ruth Lindsey, 35, and Timothy Allen Lindsey, 12, all of the Elma Street address; and James Tracy Clayton, 12, and Daniel Phillip Clayton, 11, both of San Gabriel.

Police said that the driver of the car apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle and crashed into the rear end of a parked car on D Street.

'Macaronies' are on parade

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Thirteen area women who enjoy riding horses are providing a little Bicentennial flavor to parades in Southern California.

Known as the "Macaronies," these ladies are easily recognized by their red, white and blue colonial uniforms.

They have appeared in parades in Pomona, San Dimas, Fontana, Indio and San Gabriel and can next be seen Saturday in Montclair and Sunday in Lakewood.

The group has also been invited to ride in parades as far away as San Francisco and Oakland.

"We turned down these offers as we like to remain within 100 miles of our homes,"said Mrs. Judi McArthur, one of the organizers.

The group members all reside in Chino, Montclair and Upland.

Organized last November with eight riders, the group has since added five more members.

"We decided on a mounted group as this was something that girls could do to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial," added Mrs. McArthur. "And besides, we wanted to involve our love for horses."

Deciding on a name proved to be a difficult task. Suggestions included the "Freedom Riders" and the "76ers." But finally "Macaronies" was chosen because it was a name no other group would likely select.

There was a group of English statesmen in London, England, during the late 1700s known as the Macaronies.

To associate themselves with the London group, the riders have English saddles for their mounts. The saddles, however, are placed on saddle blankets with American Bicentennial colors.

The women have received both assistance and support from their husbands.

"The husbands care for the horses and serve as babysitters while we participate in the parades," said Mrs. Pat Hightower. "They go with us on our out-of-town trips and even help us mount."

The women selected their uniform from a commercial pattern and then made variations to match their own tastes.

Their parade clothes include jackets, knickers, vests, lace ruffles, white gloves and colonial shoes with buckles.

What will happen to the Macaronies after the Bicentennial?

"We will particpate in parades this year and then decide if we want to continue," said Mrs. McArthur. "Should we decide to continue, we would select different costumes."

Besides Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. Hightower, riders are Marge Witmer, Bobbie Orsburn, Ruth Nash, Jeri Wickham, Mary Gregg, Nancy Redifer, Cindy Baeza, Mary Green, Carol Brennan, Flo Schizler, Sherry Call and Edna Schenk.

Common Cause will hold public meeting Wednesday

Members of Common Cause are seeking to get voters involved in the June primary election by having them ask questions of presidential candidates.

To better inform valley residents of the question-asking program, "California Asks," Common Cause will conduct an open meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Claremont United Methodist Church.

Barbara Margerum, Los Angeles Common Cause director, Paul Irwin, coordinator for the 35th District and Peter Dawson, local issues chairman, will share the platform.

"Never before have citizens had so clear an opportunity to get their pet questions answered by their presidential candidates," said Dawson.

Common Cause is distributing paper flyers with tear-off addressed post cards at libraries, shopping centers, churches and through community groups.

Questions received by Common Cause will be tallied and those most frequently asked will be posed to candidates in public forums and during interviews.

"Common Cause has taken strong leadership in setting a new tone in campaign practices," said Irwin. "Candidates have been asked to adhere to a set of ethical standards of campaigning that have shown a shift toward greater emphasis on issues and less on personality attacks.

"Moreover, candidates have been asked to respond in specifics on changes they wish to promote. They have had to really do their homework in response to Common Cause questions," he added.

Questions included on the postcard are how the candidates would: curb inflation and reduce the cost of living; reduce unemployment; insure integrity in government; balance energy needs with environmental protection; and combat crime. Space is also alloted for the person's own questions.

Walnut district plans to expand special class

Establishment of learning disability groups at all schools in the Walnut district is being planned when finances permit.

School board members will receive a history of the program for the educational handicapped and a summary of plans for the future when they meet tonight at 7:30 in the Walnut High School Choral Music Room.

The program was initiated in 1965-66 with a self-contained special day class for youngsters who could no longer function adequately in regular classes.

In 1969-70, it was expanded to include two special day classes in elementary schools and a learning disability group at Suzanne Intermediate School.

Walnut High School acquired a learning disability group in 1971-72 and the following year a similar program was begun at Castle Rock Elementary School.

At present, according to district staff members, there are far more than enough students needing such training at every school to justify a group at each.

Board members also will continue studying an estimated budget of $8,476,360 for 1976-77.

They'll consider a simply stated proposal for policy to avoid sex discrimination in student activities: "No student in the Walnut Valley Unified School District shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded or be subjected to discrimination in any education program or activity."

Ontario girl gets an answer

Ten-year-old Sherry Chittenden of 4796 Phillips Blvd., Ontario, has won a 1976 world almanac in the Johnny Wonder's Question Corner feature in the Progress Bulletin.

Her question is "What is an almanac?" It will be answered in the Question Corner Tuesday.

The full name of the volume Miss Chittenden will receive is "Almanac and Book of Facts 1976."

Artist-author Dick Rogers, who produces the feature, tells Miss Chittenden that "An almanac is a yearly book that contains many different kinds of useful information, as on world events, sports, politics, and many other things."

The Diamond Bar class started last week and meets every Thursday from 8 to 9 p.m. at Evergreen Elementary School, at Evergreen Springs Drive south of Pathfinder Road.

The classes, cosponsored by the Hacienda Hills Dog Obedience Club, is open to all breeds of dogs six months of age or older.

The fee is $20 for adults who are training a dog and $12 for children 14 and younger who wish to train an animal.

PVCH to hold a workshop

A two-part workshop on "Basic Problem-Oriented Record for Patient Centered Care" will be held at Pomona Valley Community Hospital April 29 and May 6.

The five-hour program will be sponsored by the Community Association for Continuing Health Education, composed of inservice education directors of six area hospitals.

The workshop will be conducted by Joan King, director of nurses at Beverly Hospital in Montebello. Those who want more information may contact Chris Burns at the San Dimas hospital, 599-6811.

A striking mistake

It is a perplexing question why labor-management disputes should so often bring out the worst in men.

Union people, who are otherwise so vocal in defense of the American ideals of free speech, fair play and the resolution of just grievances through the processes of law, too often abandon these principles in the heat of that form of social warfare known as the strike.

"Warfare" is not too strong a word. A picket was killed in Cleveland in an argument with a fellow union member during the recent Teamster strike. Fortunately, that strike was too brief to have witnessed any more such tragedies, and there was only a limited amount of windshield-smashing and other property damage.

Most of this physical violence was directed by striking Teamsters against nonstriking truck drivers (and so much for free speech and fair play). Far more disturbing is violence in the form of sabotage against the property of employers — and thus against the strikers' own livelihood.

When pressmen walked out of the Washington Post last year, they left behind a scene of carnage in the pressroom, having caused not only immensely costly property damage but ensuring long-lasting bitter relations with management, whatever the outcome of a suit the newspaper brought against the unions involved.

More recently, according to the National Broadcasting Company, technicians, engineers and other employes did $50,000 worth of damage to studios and equipment in New York on the first day of a strike. Less destructive, but more expensive, sabotage cost the company $96,000 in unplayed commercials because labels had been switched or removed from recordings.

When people go out on strike, they do so with the intention of eventually going back to work again for higher pay or better working conditions. Why then this all too prevalent and stupid recourse to sabotage, which only takes the bread out of their own mouths?

New look at an old incident

One does not usually associate serious purpose with a "skin" publication. That may explain a virtual absence of reaction so far among investigative journalists to a press release widely distributed by Penthouse magazine concerning a startling article in its current May issue. Or perhaps the allegations in the article are simply too startling for credence.

Penthouse charges that the Israeli air and sea assault on the U.S. spy ship Liberty off the Sinai coast on June 8, 1967, during the six-day Arab-Israeli war, an attack which killed 34 Americans and wounded 164, was not a case of mistaken identity as Israel claimed. The clearly marked ship had already been under Israeli aerial surveillance for six hours that day.

The attack was deliberately launched, writes British war correspondent Anthony Pearson, to prevent the Liberty from reporting that Israeli armed forces had advanced beyond the limits of a secret prewar agreement with officials in the Johnson administration.

That agreement, he says, was for Israel to wage a contained war with Egypt in order to humiliate its blustering President Nasser in the eyes of his fellow Arabs and to undercut Soviet influence in the Middle East.

In the June issue of the magazine, Pearson proposes to tell how the United States and Israel covered up the truth about the Liberty incident.

These are grave charges, and appear to be well documented ones.

The new bus service

Dear Editor:

For the last year and a half I have enjoyed the RTD'S 60F Riverside Flyer getting to work in the Los Angeles garment area, which takes approximately 1 hour and 10 minutes. Catching the 7:10 a.m. bus and reaching town to be at work at 8:30 a.m. and getting the bus at 5:10 p.m. getting home at 6:20 at night. Now all of a sudden they have changed the route of the 60F calling it a 496.

The first and only stop for pick-up and discharge is the Montclair Plaza. For us living in Pomona this is where we have to go in order for us to ride the bus. The RTD'S policy is going through Pomona is discharge only going to Los Angeles and pick-up only going toward Riverside. The 496 goes down Garey from the San Bernardino Freeway to Mission and turning right to the Corona Expressway back to the San Bernardino Freeway. The RTD said the Pomona riders will have 480 to ride to work. This bus is not a Freeway Flyer, but what us commuters call a milk run, stopping at Eastland and West Covina. Then instead of this bus coming down Spring streets it will follow the route of the Park & Ride bus, thanks to Wilber Smith & Assoc., who was supposed to take a survey of how many commuters rode the bus to where. Somehow most of the riders on my bus get off on 5th and 6th and Spring, and none of us have seen anything of a survey. So this bus will completely bypass Los Angeles proper, and ignoring the garment district or east side.

My point is this: Why can't the 496 stop at Garey and Holt? If the bus can go through Pomona why do we not have a stop? Did the RTD route this bus on Mission to go by City Hall so our councilmen and other City Fathers will see the bus thinking that all Pomona is served by it? — Joan Brown, Pomona

Sycamore school

Dear Editor:

After reading the article in the Progress Bulletin about Sycamore School in Claremont, how great it is and why it should not be closed, this is my reaction.

The children involved, though much younger, are no different from the ones in San Jose continuation school in that they must have their own school, so they can do their own thing, and apparently would not be able to adjust to a regular school.

If this is what these children need and the colleges are so gungho for it, I say great, let the colleges buy old Sycamore, run it as a private school and solve the school board's and lots of their and our problems for once and all. — Virginia Kirsch, Claremont

In like Flynt

WASHINGTON — The House Ethics Committee, which was created eight years ago to investigate unethical Congressmen, has been roused from its torpor to hound not a Congressman but a newsman.

At its first great investigation, the committee has hired a squad of ex-FBI agents to find out who leaked the House CIA report to newscaster Dan Schorr.

Now that the committee has been raised from the dead and has acquired the means to investigate somebody, we recently offered to provide the names of some bonafide Congressmen whose ethics need investigation.

If the committee is determined to investigate leaks, for example, we suggest it begin with House Ethics Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., himself.

With his sleek, silver hair and stern, patrician face, he is the picture of a proper Congressman. But behind the imposing dignity, he is a sly, old veteran at leaking stories that will benefit himself.

We have established, for example, that he leaked confidential military information to reporters on Jan. 10, 1973, to get publicity for himself and his views.

The Army provided Flynt, as a power on the military appropriations subcommittee, with a tightly-guarded reorganization plan 24 hours before it was supposed to be released. This contained news that a major headquarters would be located at Fort McPherson, Ga.

The Congressman was eager to be identified with the news. So he called two reporters into his inner office, closed the doors and passed out the confidential reorganization details. The subsequent story prominently featured Flynt's views.

An Army spokesman, without naming Flynt, told us the premature release was "improper."

On another occasion, the General Accounting Office conducted a confidential study of the Spewrell Bluff dam for Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga. He circulated the study, as a courtesy, to some of his colleagues. For them to release the information without his consent would be considered a serious ethical violation.

The governor of Georgia at the time, Jimmy Carter, discreetly cited some of the contents at a press conference. He was careful, however, not to release the text.

Reporters, catching the scent of a good story, sought the full text, but Talmadge would not release it. Yet Flynt, again in the secrecy of his office, handed over a Xeroxed copy of the confidential document to a reporter. The subsequent story, of course, featured Flynt's views.

This leak occurred, in case the committee is interested, on Oct. 2, 1973.

It might also be considered a violation of ethics for a Congressman to boost a company that is paying him a big rental fee. But in 1972, the Ford Motor Company paid him $12,500 to rent an empty field where they could store up to 30,000 new cars. The cars temporarily were barred from the market until they could be re-tested to determine whether they met antipollution standards.

Some months later, Flynt denounced the standards on the House floor, calling them "ridiculous in the extreme." He tried unsuccessfully to get Congress to relax the standards. When Flynt came up for reelection in 1974, company chairman Henry Ford II and his brother, Benson Ford, ponied up $200 apiece for the Congressman's campaign.

It is also considered an unethical practice for Congressmen to take free flights in corporate planes. We have learned that Flynt, nevertheless, calls upon Beech Aircraft and Atlanta Gas Light to provide him with air taxi service.

Beech does millions in defense business, which is funded by Flynt's subcommittee. The company was happy, therefore, to fly him in a sleek Beechcraft turbojet to St. Simon's island off the coast of Georgia for golfing and to the fabled Masters course in Augusta, Ga.

Once Flynt needed to return to Washington to chair an Ethics Committee meeting. One of the subjects discussed was unethical corporate courting of Congressmen. Yet believe it or not, Flynt wangled a free ride to the meeting in a corporate plane belonging to Atlanta Gas Light

His corporate friends don't have jets with enough range to fly to Africa, where his daughter and her husband are stationed. So Flynt billed the taxpayers instead for a junket to Africa. There are those who might say this, too, is unethical.

On other occasions, Flynt has turned up at the secluded Wye Island, Md., lodge of another defense contractor, Rockwell International, to shoot geese.

The members of the House Ethics Committee would do well to remember that an informed public can bring about a change in the ethical standards of Congress by mandating a change in its membership.

Tax structure must change

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington writer

WASHINGTON — With Congress about to approve a $50 billion plus deficit before the next fiscal year is even close and the president complaining because he would prefer a $35 billion budget deficit the attitudes of the presidential candidates regarding taxes should be spotlighted.

Most economist and financial wizards agree that continued gigantic deficits will eventually spell the ruin of the nation. The optimistic look toward the rebirth of a dynamic national industry to generate the needed revenue to return us to a reasonable age of small deficits or even budget surpluses.

The pessimistic see only belt tightening and more taxes as the nation's only salvation. Regardless of which approach the presidential candidates choose to take they all agree only in one area and that is that the tax structure must change. How they would do it is an altogether different question.

Only Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington has failed to publicly espouse his attitude about the future of the tax structure. He has often supported tax reform during his 35 years in Congress, but hasn't left a concrete public record.

His Democratic opponents for the presidential nomination have been a little clearer.

Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona favors the most radical change of the three major candidates among the Democrats. The lanky "progressive" claims he could gain $20 billion by plugging tax loopholes and he would return the money to middle and low income citizens. Some of the ways he would gain those funds is through an annual congressional review of the federal loopholes, subsidies and other incentives; by phasing out preferential tax treatment of capital gains and replace with fair income averaging provisions and by revising corporate tax laws to eliminate provisions which encourage economic concentration.

Udall has also gone on the record, ". . . if its necessary to get health care, I think the American people would pay a few extra bucks (in taxes) to get a uniform, universal system of health insurance." Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter will seek an all inclusive tax bill which would be a "simple structure with all income treated the same, with income being taxed only once, with a truly progressive tax rate so that those who made the most . . . paid the higher percentage of total taxes."

Ronald Reagan on the other hand, says "The rich wage earners are not the problem when it comes to taxes." The problem as Reagan sees it is the size of government. President Ford has already sought a tax decrease and would support a more progressive tax, according to his aides.

Just in jest

Each new era brings new challenges for young, ambitious college graduates — opportunities that were unheard of in the days when their parents and their grandparents removed caps and gowns and started job hunting. When, I ask you, throughout all this world's previous history, did a brand new B.A., or even a Summum Cum Laude, have an opportunity to become a Toilet Seat Tester? Or for that matter, a designer of soft, padded toilet seats in pastel colors? And if today's graduate is the inventive type, he may even be able to perfect what has thus far left some of our most creative minds in a state of abject frustration — a heated toilet seat.

'3 by 80' a slogan and goal

Editor's Note:

During his hospitalization, top state officials are filling in for Earl G. Waters. Today his guest is Michael P. Evanhoe, Assistant Secretary, Business and Transportation Agency and Chief, Office of Traffic Safety.

Here at the Office of Traffic Safety we are in the business of helping you reach your threescore and ten. True, traffic crashes are not the only things that can get you, but they did kill over 4,000 Californians last year — all but 10 per cent before their time. More than 200,000 others were crippled, maimed or painfully injured.

That's too many.

This year we are embarking on a new statewide campaign called "3 by 80".

"3 by 80" is both a slogan and a goal. That is: reduce California's traffic fatality rate to 3.0 deaths per 100-million vehicle miles by 1980. Or sooner. It's 3.2 right now.

The traffic fatality rate is simply the number of traffic deaths relative to miles driven. For example: last year motorists drove a total of 131.3 billion miles over California streets, roads and highways. 4,189 were killed. This gives a traffic death rate of 3.2 deaths per 100-million miles.

The national average is 3.6. California is one of the states with the lowest traffic fatality rates, despite our having the largest number of vehicles, the most drivers, and a whopping 16 percent of all roads in the country.

Incidentally, if you count state highways only, California's rate is 1.1 for all freeways and 4.7 for conventional highways — making a state highway average of 2.2. The rate on urban freeways, the heaviest traveled but safest of all roads, is only 0.8. Higher rates on city streets and county roads brings the total state average up to the 3.2 figure.

Statistics are fine. They can show "facts". But they do not tell the real story.

That is the story of your dear ones and your hopes for them. This is where we try to nudge a little into your life — to offer awareness on how you can drive better, how you can defend yourself on the road, how you can prevent searing tragedy and shattered dreams because of the cruel loss of a cherished mate, an adoring child, a promising son, a spirited daughter.

A low death rate brings no solace to the hurt and grieving. The rate is not low enough for them. A rate of 0.0 is a dream we dare to dream.

To do this we've set our sights on willing cooperation at all levels of government, private enterprise and community organizations. Especially community organizations. We vow the closest working relationship possible with these groups with our aid, technical assistance, and a strong public support program.

We believe there is untapped concern and waiting support in the communities of California — you. You make up the PTA, the scouts, service clubs and coffee klatches, the little league, garden clubs, youth groups, the school boards, and city councils. You are the answer. Set an example.

What people say

"To those who would suggest we should cut even deeper (into the defense budget), I would say this: 'Do you want your children — and your grandchildren — to grow up in a world in which the Soviet Union is the paramount military power on earth?' I say no."

—Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), on his opposition to further defense cuts.

Berry's world

". . . And another reason we don't need an Intelligence Oversight Committee is we've had too many oversights involving intelligence already."

Writer protests Canadian aliens working in U.S.

Why is it that the immigration bureau allows so many aliens from Canada to come here to this country and work?

They are not U. S. citizens but all they have to do is take time for an interview to get a job. They can become citizens if they did not have any criminal counts against them. All they need is to have a Social Security card.

I even know of one case where a man who had served time in prison in Canada came here and got a job.

The poor people from Mexico come here. If they are caught, they are sent right back to Mexico.

For the life of me I can't see why the United States makes such a difference between the people from Canada and the people of Mexico. After all, the people from Mexico like to make enough money to live on.

The aliens from Canada are still here and have been for the last six years off and on.

One of them works here a while, goes back to Canada and then comes back here. One worked in a government place of employment.

How can some people come out on top and the poor Mexicans end up with nothing? — W. G., Ontario.

Joseph Sureck, district director of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, told us there is no discrmination.

Ninety per cent of all allotments is from Mexico, Central America and South America. The other 10 per cent is from the rest of the world, he said.

Currently immigration agents are going to plants and factories to make sure people working there are legal residents. They do pick up aliens from other countries.

Some of the, Sureck explained, are students. They may work only with the permission of the INS and the schools they attend and only then if they are needy.

Students must show that they have adequate means of support when they enter the country. But sometimes financial circumstances change. Sureck cited the upheaval in Lebanon as an example of how a student's income from another country could be reduced or cut off.

He admitted that an illegal alien from Canada who speaks good English may not create doubt or suspicion. On-the-spot inquiries turning up a person who doesn't speak English may lead to other inquiries.

You wrote about the poor in Mexico. Similarly, Sureck said the standard of living south of the border is the basis for the Mexican illegal alien problem.

He mentioned as another contributing factor the proximity of the Mexican border as compared to the Canadian border.

FOLLOW-UP:

On April 14 we published information given us by Mrs. Mable Fagan of Pomona about the Joos family, object of a search undertaken at the request of Mrs. Paul E. Strate of Kingfisher, Okla., a relative.

We still haven't located descendants of Mrs. Abbye Joos, Mrs. Strate's great-aunt, but Mary Jones added a little to our growing history of the role Abbye and her family played in the history of the town.

She said she did housework for Abbye's daughter Minnie at 309 San Francisco St. in 1959 and also her sister-in-law, Mrs. Viola Joos at 305 E. Jefferson Ave. Viola, she said, lived in a lovely brick house on a corner.

Mrs. Jones reported she had been told that Viola died at Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Claremont. People at that retirement community had the date of her death noted as June 28, 1966, but thought she might have been an out-patient of the medical center rather than a resident of the Gardens.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An old friend may be a little temperamental and difficult to get along with. Don't let her moods put a damper on your day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to avoid competitive situations today where your opponent has the upper hand going in. Wait till the odds are more even.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Guard your conversations today. Don't say something harsh that could offend your listener. It could be hard to smooth over.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be prudent. Count your pennies carefully today if you hope to get the proper mileage from the funds you have at hand.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Situations with close associates could still be a little problematical again today. Don't do anything to rock the boat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to get your most difficult jobs out of the way early today. Toward late afternoon you may not feel as perky and positive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Although you'll feel in a social mood today, being where there is someone you're not too fond of could spoil it for you.

More about those hairy chests

Dear Ann Landers: The letter to Elmer's wife was my laugh for the day. Why any woman would attach so much importance to the hair on a man's chest is a mystery to me.

My brother happened to have a very hairy chest and he was so proud of it he showed it off at every opportunity. He especially enjoyed displaying his bountiful growth in the presence of my husband, who had very little hair on his chest.

One day I happened to run across a magazine article that surprised me. It said men with hairy chests were fooling themselves if they considered it a sign of manliness. The more hair on the chest (according to the person who wrote the article) the more female hormones the man had. He went on to say the hairy-chested male is more likely to produce female children, while the less hairy-chested man is more apt to have sons. (My brother has four girls and one boy. We have three boys and one girl.)

After I showed that article to my brother he strutted a lot less and kept his shirt buttoned more. — Last Laugh

Dear L.L.: That article may have solved an irritating problem for you, dear, but according to Dr. Norbert Freinkel, Director of the Center for Endocrinology at Northwestern University Medical School, there is no convincing evidence that links the quantity of chest hair with the level of female or male sex hormones. Also, it has nothing whatever to do with the ability to have either boy or girl babies.

Dear Ann Landers: "Things are different, Grandma. Boys and girls kiss in the halls at school, lie close to each other in the grass during lunch hour, smoke pot in the bathrooms and on the school steps, and hundreds of freshmen girls get pregnant every year." So spoke my 15-year-old granddaughter while trying desperately to make excuses for her second pregnancy by the same boy. This after having had two abortions.

Within six months the child has lost seven weeks of school. Her once healthy body is now anemic and she is always exhausted. She threatened suicide when her parents forbade her seeing the boy again.

Need I tell you I am heartbroken? My daughter has tried to be a good mother. Her husband is a fine hard-working man. Wht does the future hold for a 15-year-old with such a tragic history? — Deeply Concerned In Corning, N.Y.

Dear Concerned: This child is clearly out of control and has been for quite some time. Her parents should get her into the hands of a competent therapist at once. Too bad this wasn't done immediately after the first abortion. Some professional was not doing his job.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting fed to the gullet with your incessant, relentless harping on the evils of liquor. You are so hipped on the subject I wouldn't be surprised if you were a closet nipper yourself.

You are forever quoting physicians as your "authorities." Have you noticed, Ann, there are more old drunks around than old doctors? Print this one, if you can think of an answer. — Jim Beam

Dear Jim: Those old drunks you see around are a lot younger than they look. The booze is what aged 'em.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Getting ahead of headlines

Now that the 685 lawyers, 1,234 agents, and 3,885 "spokesmen" for professional baseball players have clasped their attache cases and gone back to the honest defense of ax murderes and car prowlers, baseball season has gotten underway and the sportswriter and editor have turned again to the well-thumbed manual of synonyms for "defeated."

Age cannot wither nor custom stale the infinite variety of ways in which one team downs, defeats, beats, overcomes or blasts its opponent. The average sports writer has at his fingertips 431 verbs meaning "to conquer."

NBC sportscaster Nat Ash, a skilled practitioner of the art, can go through 30 scores in a broadcast without ever repeating a verb. Nip, trounce, top, trim, down, edge, whip, whomp, clobber, crush — the list is endless.

The Progress-Bulletin recently fired a cub reporter who wrote "Stanford Beats UCLA." Beats? What kind of a headline is that? What's wrong with "throttles" or "manhandles" or "tramples"?

The first thing a savvy sports writer looks for is an apt turn, using the names of the teams — "Indians Ax Brewers," "Tigers Claw Angels," "Rangers Shoot Down Orioles," "Mets Scuttle Pirates." In other sports you can say that the Aeros "harpooned" the New England Whalers, the Phoenix Suns "tanned" their opponents and "L.A. Rams Home Victory." Sports headline puns are not punitive.

There is more variety in college football, where colorful nicknames abound. "Razorbacks Gore Bears," "Indians Scalp Huskies," "Army Sinks Navy," "Air Force Bombs Purdue."

Sometimes the score comes under consideration. A blanking (or skunking or whitewashing) is just that, of course, but if the Yanks beat Boston, 2-1, you can't use "crush" or "rip." How about "ekes by" or "edges." Alliteration is fun, too, if you're ahead of deadline — "Bombers Blank Beantowners," "Mets Murder Montreal," "Cards Clobber Cubs."

For the lay reader of the sports page, two elements must be brought to view. A sportswriter or editor has some 126 headlines to write each day, and they all must be considered and composed in .08 seconds. You can't sit around all day waiting for inspiration. While you hesitate between "belts" and "belabors," the clock on the wall is sweeping toward deadline.

The other vital factor is what we call "point count," the number of letters you can get in a headline of a particular column width. "Tigers Consume Indians" is too long. Rip, Claw, Tear? Come on, hurry up! "Giants Belt Dodgers." Too long — make it "L.A." "Birds Bomb Brewers." Good alliteration, bad imagery, 23 seconds to do better. Belabor? Two counts too long. Fourteen seconds to go.

Many of us envy sportswriters, seeing all those games free, best seats in the house, guzzling coffee, hobnobbing with the sweaty greats. But when the game is done, we go home to bed; the sportwriter goes back to the office.

"Destroyed"? "Ambushed"? "Throttled"? "Ripped"?

Woman fears brain tumor

DEAR DR. LAMB — I cansider myself a healthy, happy woman of 43 with a wonderful husband anf family. I don't pay much attention to my aches and pains. I can put up with the occasional arthritic aches in hands and shoulders. Recently I have had some symptoms that have frightened me. Once I fainted, apparently for no reason, and once my right hand ceased to function at all for about two hours. I couldn't make it move or anything. I found out yesterday when a routine blood pressure was taken in the dentist's chair that my blood pressure was a little high, 150 over 98.

This is probably the case of a little knowledge being a bad thing because I fear a brain tumor. A year ago I had my annual checkup, but I hesitated to mention my fears to my doctor, no doubt it would have sounded silly. Also I understand the tests for brain tumor are quite painful. Am I over reacting?

DEAR READER — I am always amazed at how many patients avoid telling the doctor the thing that they are worried about. Obviously the best way to get an answer is to ask a question. There are lots of things a doctor can do and usually does routinely on a good physical examination that would help him acertain whether there was any real likelihood of your having a brain tumor or not. When he checks all your reflexes and notes even how you walk and stand he'll have some ideas of how your brain and nervous system is functioning.

When he looks in the back of the eyes he can see whether there is any evidence of increased pressure inside the brain. Since you didn't ask him and you probably had no signs to indicate such a thing he probably felt it totally unnecessary to suddenly tell you that you don't have any evidence of a brain tumor.

I can't say why you fainted. There are many reasons why people faint, from over breathing (hyperventilation) to emotional reactions, recent illnesses, prolonged standing or any number of things. Nor could I possibly tell you why you had some trouble moving your right hand. That too could have been a complication from hyperventilation, if you happened to have been anxious about something.

Your blood pressure reading was a little high, but I'd like to point out that one blood pressure reading does not give a true indication of what one's real blood pressure is. The worst time to get an accurate blood pressure reading is during a period of stress. That would certainly include the dentist's chair for most people. For more information on what controls your blood pressure send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you really want to find out what your blood pressure is under normal circumstances have it taken under normal circumstances. Most people's pressure is often a little higher in the doctor's office than it is at home. Because of your concern and the inability to really pin down what the symptoms you have mentioned mean I think you ought to go to your family doctor and tell him what you're worried about and let him give you a proper examination and a good answer.

Oswald: "Slow play is an abomination, but that doesn't mean that you shouldn't take time to think."

Jim: "I notice you have been slowing down as you get older. When we won the knockout teams at the Dallas Regional, we still had to wait for boards at each exchange. I suppose you have some hand in mind."

Oswald: "South really broke three records with today's hand. It took him less than one second to bid four and then seven notrump, and it took him just about the same time to throw the hand away in the play."

Jim: "I can see what he did. At trick two he played his ace of spades. Then, since East held all five spades and West all five hearts, he could never collect thirteen tricks. Had he stopped to think, he would have played the jack of spades from dummy. Then he would have been able to finesse twice against East's ten-nine. What was his third record?"

Oswald: "The loudest squawk about bad luck I have ever heard."

In this convention the king of trumps is counted as an ace. You reply five clubs to show zero or five key cards, five diamonds to show one, etc. The convention has considerable merit but most experts steer clear of it because somehow or other they tend to get confused.

Play's last line not rehearsed

In rehearsing a play, the last line must not be spoken, according to the dictates of superstition. Client asks why. Am told the notion had a practical beginning. Actors once tended to over-rehearse the last line. This caused them to deliver it in a wooden manner without sufficient thoughty concentration to make it fraught.

Our Love and War man, long under the impression that love is universal, puzzles over the fact that numerous primitive cultures don't even have a word for it. Odd.

HOWARD HUGHES

Q. "How will the death of Howard Hughes affect Jane Russell's life-long contract for $50,000 a year?"

A. That wasn't a life-long deal. It reportedly was for 20 years, so would have expired a year ago.

Q. "What's the average cost now of keeping one of our congressmen in Washington, D.C.?"

A. About $489,000 a year is the latest estimate. Some are kept for less, some for more.

COLLECTIONS

When you were a youngster, how many different sorts of things, like stamps and matchbook covers and bottle caps, did you collect at one time or another? Average child undertakes six such collecting projects before high school graduation, surveys show.

Did I say that World War II aircraft known as the Messerschmitt 109 was extinct? Not quite. The plane remains in shape with the Confederate Air Force at Rebel Field in Harlingen, Texas.

Those forward-looking businessmen of Lake City, Pa., have budgeted $6,000 to build a landing strip for flying saucers.

It's common knowledge that some people who ordinarily speak pretty well develop a stutter under stress. Less widely known is the fact that others who usually stutter don't do so under stress. This is another of the several paradoxes that make speech impediments among the most difficult to treat, I'm told.

Wife's depression

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife used to be very much a "party girl." We would make the rounds of local bars and restaurants because she enjoyed being with people. She seemed fine and happy then except that she often had headaches. Her doctor said she was suffering from depression. Now her headaches have gone but she's very different. She still seems depressed, is often sarcastic and ill-tempered and doesn't want to go out at all. — R.A.

Dear R.A.: There are many different ways of experiencing depression. Some people, as your wife did, use crowds, parties and constant noise to deny and repress feelings of anxiety and depression. This can be dangerous because, by not allowing true feelings to surface, they are unable to discover the reasons behind them. A problem cannot be coped with as long as its existence is denied.

For the victim, depression is a constant and discomforting emotional state. Although it may be unpleasant for others, it shouldn't be viewed as an unnatural or abnormal emotion. It can be part of the adjustment process necessary for dealing with painful life experiences. It is most common when the person has experienced a loss of some kind. This may be non-specific, such as an awareness that time is slipping by or the fear of death that may accompany this realization.

Often, bad temper may mark the end of a period of depression, because the victim has an awareness of other people even though that awareness may be negative. Your wife, by her occasional snapping or sarcasm may be signaling the beginning of her recovery.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I made the mistake of telling my husband that our neighbors are getting sex counsel. Now he thinks of them as some kind of freaks. He's sure they're mate swappers or have other far-out habits. We were just beginning to be friends and now he resists any invitation to dinner or to visit. What can I do? — T.L.

Dear T.L.: I don't think there's any reason for your husband to feel threatened. Would he be alarmed if he learned this couple were going for medical help? There is certainly nothing wrong, morally or medically, with sex counseling or sex therapy. It enables couples who realize they have a problem to try to overcome it.

It is believed that half of all marriages in the U.S. are troubled by some type of sexual problem. This type of incompatibility was once endured by couples but, fortunately, people are now courageous enough to seek solutions.

There are 3,500 to 5,000 organizations throughout the U.S. that describe themselves as sex clinics or family counseling services specializing in sexual problems. Because this is a new field, no standards have yet been established by medical or psychiatric associations.

Your neighbors are not to be feared or considered freaks. Like many intelligent couples they have come to grips with their problem and are seeking professional guidance in solving it.

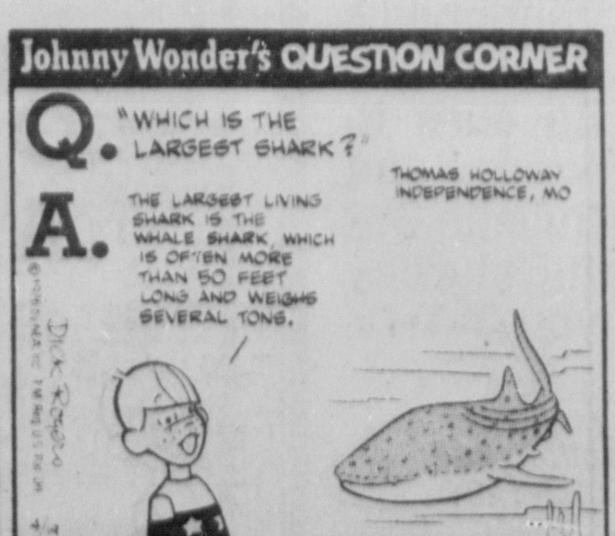
JOHNNY WONDER



Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER
Q. "WHICH IS THE LARGEST SHARK?"
THOMAS HOLLOWAY INDEPENDENCE, MO
A. THE LARGEST LIVING SHARK IS THE WHALE SHARK, WHICH IS OFTEN MORE THAN 50 FEET LONG AND WEIGHS SEVERAL TONS.
DICK ROBERTO
4/19

The largest known living shark is the whale shark which is often more than 50 feet long and weighs several tons. It is also the biggest of all fishes.

(The whale, which is larger and resembles a fish, is not a fish but a mammal.)

Whale sharks can easily be recognized by the lines of pale spots on a grayish body, as well as by their huge size.

Curiously enough, this biggest shark of all is completely harmless to man. Though it has jaws wide enough to swallow a man, the whale shark lives peacefully in the warm sea, eating seaweed and small fish.

Sharks have the reputation for being among the most dangerous of sea creatures.

There are many kinds of sharks, and while some are quite fierce, the surprising thing is that most kinds of sharks are quite harmless.

The great white shark is sometimes called the most dangerous of sharks. It may grow to be 35 feet long, and will have no hesitation about making a meal of a swimmer.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

U.S. finally might ink genocide treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — On almost every day that the Senate has met since Jan. 10, 1967, Sen. William Proxmire has issued a short speech calling on his colleagues to ratify a 25-year-old treaty making genocide an international crime.

His efforts during the roughly 3,000 days of his campaign have met with a conspicuous lack of success, a fact Proxmire considers disgraceful.

Soon the Senate will have another chance to consider the genocide treaty, which already has been signed by 82 nations, including the Soviet Union.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee sent the treaty to the Senate floor recently. It will be debated sometime after the Easter vacation.

An outgrowth of Hitler's persecution of Jews and other minorities during World War II, the treaty defines genocide as slaughter or maiming or other acts designed to destroy in whole or in part a national, ethnic, racial or religious group.

Such an act would be punishable whether committed in time of war or peace and whether by government or private individuals.

The treaty was first submitted to the Senate by President Harry S. Truman in 1949, but it was rejected.

The Senate last considered the treaty in 1974 but twice failed to stop a fillibuster that prevented a vote on the treaty's merits.

But under new rules it now takes fewer votes to stop a fillibuster, and Proxmire, D-Wis., and other supporters of the treaty believe they can stop a fillibuster this year. Senate ratification of a treaty requires two-thirds of all senators present and voting.

"This is the best opportunity proponents of the treaty have had for years," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. "I am confident we can win approval."

Proxmire has issued a different speech on the treaty each day, delivering it in person or inserting it in the Congressional Record.

"There is nothing more important in this Bicentenntial year than for the full Senate to reaffirm its support for the fundamental right of all racial and religious and ethnic groups to exist," he said.

But an outspoken Senate minority, consisting mainly of Southern and conservative senators, has consistently opposed the treaty as an infringement of state and national sovereignty and an encroachment on the judicial system of the United States.

During the 1974 debate, Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., contended the treaty might subject U.S. citizens to trial on trumped-up genocide charges in foreign courts or international tribunals without the protection of individual rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

Subcompacts to replace state autos

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state will replace its 150 cars at Los Angeles International Airport with subcompacts, says the Department of General Services.

The cars are in a motor pool for use by state officials on business trips.

Department director Leonard Grimes said that the move should save fuel and set a good example of energy conservation.

He said the 1974 model compacts now at the airport will be transferred elsewhere in Southern California to replace eight-cylinder sedans with 100,000 miles or more.

Statewide, 282 subcompacts will be bought this year. This will be about half of all cars purchased, Grimes said.

The airport cars are to be American Motors Gremlins, he said. They should arrive in two weeks.
